GENERAL SECRETARIAT

Dated 26th February 1946.

No. S. R. 4338—L. W. 82-45-2. Under Section 12 (4) of the Mysore Labour Act, 1942, as amended from time to time, the Government of His Highness the Maharaja are pleased to publish for general information, the accompanying report of the Chief Conciliator in Mysore in the matter of the industrial dispute between the Bangalore Transport Co., Ltd., Bangalore, and the concerned Labour Association, Bangalore, in regard to the revision of the existing scales of pay and enhancement of annual increments, etc., of the employees working in the Company.

6366 MOHAMED ISMAIL SHERIFF, Gl. Secy.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF CONCILIATOR IN MYSORE, BANGALORE.

No. C. C. 21—45-46.
Dated 18th February 1946.

To

THE SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT OF
HIS HIGHNESS THE MAHARAJA OF MYSORE,
GENERAL DEPARTMENT, BANGALORE.

Sir,

I have the honour to make the following report under Section 12 (4) of the Mysore Labour Act, relating to a dispute between the Bangalore Transport Company, Ltd., Bangalore, and the concerned Labour Association, Bangalore, in regard to revision of present scales of pay and enhancement of annual increments for different classes of employees working in the Company.

2. The President of the Labour Association gave a notice of change dated 6th October 1945 to the Management of the Company, desiring certain changes in the existing scales of pay and in the enhancement of annual increments for different classes of employees working in the Company. The several changes that are demanded cover 17 items and are set out in detail in the annexure to the notice.

3. As the Assistant Commissioner of Labour, Bangalore Division could not bring about an agreement between the parties, the Commissioner of Labour referred the case to this office for initiating conciliation proceedings.

The case was accordingly registered and intimations sent to both the parties. I held conciliation proceedings at Bangalore both on the 28th January 1946 and the 13th February 1946. Mr. G. V. Challam, President of the Association, represented the Association, while Mr. C. A. Madhava Rao, Traffic Manager of the Company, represented the Management.

Mr. M. Abdul Azeem, B.A., Assistant Commissioner of Labour, Bangalore Division was also present on both the days.

At the outset, the Association's President stated that the Management in their reply to the notice proposed certain revisions in the scales of pay and that, the Labour Association while accepting the principles involved therein wanted certain changes and modifications in the matter of fixing the pay of those working from the inception of the Company. The correspondence in this respect was referred to. The Management's report stated that the Board of Directors had considered all aspects of the question and that, nothing more than what has already been proposed by the Management was possible, and that individual cases of hardship, if brought to the notice of the Management by individual representations would be considered suitably on their merits. After a full discussion, the Management's Representative wanted time to place the whole matter again before the Board of Directors in the light of the discussions. The Labour Representative having no objection the proceedings were adjourned to 13th February 1946.

At the adjourned meeting on the 13th February 1946, the Management's Representative filed a copy of the resolution passed by the Board of Directors at their meeting on the previous day (12th February 1946) on the subject, to the effect that "the Board have considered very carefully while fixing the pay of each employee, having due regard to the nature of duties length of service and efficiency, and do not see the necessity of revising the rates so soon again, particularly in view of the uncertainty of the future income of the Company."

The Association President said that they could not accept the decision of the Board and would press the demands. The Management's Representative stated that the Management could not accept the demands as put forth by the Labour Association.

All possible ways for settlement were explored, but the parties did not come to any settlement. The proceedings thus ended in failure, which I hereby report.

I request that this report may be published in the Gazette, as required in sub-section (4) of Section 12 of the Mysore Labour Act.

I have the honour to be
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
NAVANEETHAM,
Chief Conciliator.

DEVELOPMENT SECRETARIAT

Official Memorandum dated 6th March 1946.

No. D. 6749—I. & C. 43-44-54. The following Press Note dated the 23rd November 1945, regarding certain modifications in the scheme for registration of post-war requirements of capital goods, issued by the Government of India, are republished for general information, in continuation of the previous notifications on the subject published in the Mysore Gazette dated 15th February 1945 and 30th August 1945, respectively.

Facilitating Capital Goods Imports.

With a view to facilitating early consideration of applications for registration of requirements of capital goods for the cotton textile industry, it has been decided that the Deputy Chief Controller of Imports, Bombay, who is the licensing authority for cotton textile machinery, millstores, and component parts, should receive such applications on behalf of the Chief Controller of Imports, New Delhi.

Applications for registration of such goods should therefore, in future be addressed to the Deputy Chief Controller of Imports, Bombay, in the first instance, in the prescribed form.

It has also been decided that imports of capital goods for stock and sale, whether for the requirements of the cotton textile industry or any other industry, will require registration only, if the value of any of the individual units included in the stock order is Rs. 25,000 and over (or Rs. 10,000 and over in the case of machine tools), irrespective of the total value of the order.

It has further been decided that, in future, when once an application has been accepted for registration, an import license will be issued as quickly as possible after issue of the Registration Certificate, from whatever country import has been registered and whatever the goods concerned. In other words acceptance of registration carries with it automatically the right to an import license.

DEVELOPMENT SECRETARIAT

Official Memorandum dated 6th March 1946.

No. D. 6749—I. & C. 43-44-54. The following Press Note dated the 23rd November 1945, regarding certain modifications in the scheme for registration of post-war requirements of capital goods, issued by the Government of India, are republished for general information, in continuation of the previous notifications on the subject published in the Mysore Gazette dated 15th February 1945 and 30th August 1945, respectively.

Facilitating Capital Goods Imports.

With a view to facilitating early consideration of applications for registration of requirements of capital goods for the cotton textile industry, it has been decided that the Deputy Chief Controller of Imports, Bombay, who is the licensing authority for cotton textile machinery, millstores, and component parts, should receive such applications on behalf of the Chief Controller of Imports, New Delhi.

Applications for registration of such goods should therefore, in future be addressed to the Deputy Chief Controller of Imports, Bombay, in the first instance, in the prescribed form.

It has also been decided that imports of capital goods for stock and sale, whether for the requirements of the cotton textile industry or any other industry, will require registration only, if the value of any of the individual units included in the stock order is Rs. 25,000 and over (or Rs. 10,000 and over in the case of machine tools), irrespective of the total value of the order.

It has further been decided that, in future, when once an application has been accepted for registration, an import license will be issued as quickly as possible after issue of the Registration Certificate, from whatever country import has been registered and whatever the goods concerned. In other words acceptance of registration carries with it automatically the right to an import license.

INTRODUCTION.

Appointment of the Committee.—The Committee was established by the following Government Order:—

ORDER NO. M. 1477-538—G. M. 33-45-1, DATED BANGALORE, THE 21ST AUGUST 1945.

At the Dasara Session of the Representative Assembly held in November 1944, the following Resolution was passed:—

> "This Assembly recommends to the Government of His Highness the Maharaja that with a view to eradicate bribery and corruption, a separate department be opened and a Committee consisting of elected members of this House be constituted to give proper suggestions in the matter."

The need for the adoption of special measures in this behalf was also stressed at the Session of the Legislative Council in June 1945, by way of a cut motion in connection with the voting on the grant under "12. General Administration."

With a view to maintain purity in the services, comprehensive rules have been laid down, under which cases of corruption in the public services are dealt with. These rules cover the mode of enquiry into such cases and provide for prosecution in a Court of Law in grave cases of misconduct and for a departmental enquiry in other cases. Detailed circular instructions have also been issued to the Deputy Commissioners and Heads of Departments from time to time, impressing on them, among other things, the need for surprise inspections, for prompt personal enquiries into allegations of corruption and for taking suitable and adequate disciplinary action in all cases where the charges have been proved.

In view of the opinion expressed in the Representative Assembly and the Legislative Council, Government consider that the desirability of taking further steps in the matter may be examined with advantage by a special committee and are accordingly pleased to direct that a Committee be appointed with the personnel noted below :—

CHAIRMAN.

Rajamantradhurina Sir Albion Rajkumar Banerji, C.S.I., C.I.E.

MEMBERS.

1. Mr. G. Sundara Rao, B.A., Director of Food Supplies.
2. " N. S. Hirannayya, M.A., Secretary to Government, Education Department.
3. " D. S. Mallappa, Member of the Legislative Council.
4. " B. R. Chandrasekhariah, B.A., Member of the Representative Assembly.
5. " A. J. Khaleel, B.A., B.L., Member of the Representative Assembly.
6. " A. Middleton, Member of the Representative Assembly.

The Committee is requested to submit their report to Government as early as possible.

Heads of Departments and Deputy Commissioners of Districts are requested to give the Committee all facilities for the conduct of the investigation.

N. S. HIRANNAYYA,
Secretary to Government,
Education Department.

2. Mr. A. Middleton, one of the members, having pleaded his inability to work as member of the Committee, Government in their Order No. 2579-80—G. M. 33-45-11, dated 25th September 1945, appointed in his place another member of the Representative Assembly, Lokasevasakta Mr. L. Vema Reddi.

3. The personnel of the Committee having been finally fixed, it held its first meeting on the 7th of September 1945 from which day onwards the committee met thirteen times and finally considered its report at meetings held on the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 18th of February 1946.

4. A brief Who is Who in respect of the Committee is given as an Appendix (Appendix I).

5. At the preliminary stages, the committee went into the question of the nature of the investigation to be made, the evidence to be called for, and the procedure to be adopted in respect of their investigations.

6. Terms of Reference and Scope of Enquiry.—The Committee at the very first meeting gave careful consideration to the direction contained in the Government order to examine the question of taking further steps in the matter of checking and dealing with corruption.

7. We therefore devoted our attention to—

(i) a close examination of the existing rules and orders of Government on the subject;

(ii) how far they have fulfilled the purpose; and

(iii) what further steps, if any, other than those already taken are necessary.

8. The limited terms of reference and the Government's reply to the Committee's request to extend immunity to the Members and witnesses made it clear that no elaborate enquiry by a Roving Commission was contemplated. We fully realised the extremely delicate nature of our task. We also had in our mind the previous history of the subject of bribery and corruption that came up for discussion in the legislative bodies in the State during the past 20 years or more. We have naturally refrained from making any statements which would create a wrong impression as to the morale of the Public Servants of the State or in any manner throw a damper on the ardour of the representatives of the people in the Legislature who have shown on various occasions laudable eagerness to purge the administration of the evil and improve its morale.

9. Previous History of Public Representations on the Subject.—It would perhaps enlighten public opinion if a brief reference is made to past discussions on the subject in the Legislative Council and the Representative Assembly, which will, with advantage, provide a background for what is to follow in our Report.

10. As long ago as 1922, a subject was brought up at the Birthday Session of the Representative Assembly urging the adoption of measures to prevent bribery in certain departments such as Registration and Railways, and pressing also for indemnity to bribe-givers by an amendment of the Indian Penal Code. It would be interesting to read the reply of the Dewan-President (the Representation at the June Session of the R. A. in 1922.

Chairman of this Committee) on that occasion; and this is printed as Appendix II-A.

Resolution at Legislative Council Session of December 1924.

11. Two years later, a resolution was brought up at the Autumn Session of the Legislative Council in 1924, recommending that a small permanent organization consisting of non-official members of the Legislative Council and members of Government be formed to enquire into all cases of corruption in the various departments of Government and to recommend to Government the necessary action that may be taken in each case. In commending this resolution for adoption by the Council, the mover narrated how corruption existed to a large extent in some departments like Revenue, Excise, Registration, Police, Clerical Branch of the Civil Courts, etc., and how it was in practice extremely difficult to prove cases and how it would be dangerous even to make accusations. He further referred to the steps that had just then been taken by the Government of the Punjab in the matter and urged the adoption of similar measures in Mysore. In replying to the debate on the resolution the then Dewan-President (Chairman of this Committee) referred first to his speech at the Assembly (vide Appendix II-A) and his reply is appended to this Report as Appendix II-B.

12. The resolution was withdrawn by the mover on the assurances contained in the reply.

During 1924-36.

13. There do not appear to have been very many occasions on which the question was raised in the following years until recently. However, in the Dasara Session of the Representative Assembly during 1927, there was a representation to the effect that the bribe-giver in alleged cases of corruption should be exempted from prosecution. This representation was noted. The matter was taken up again in the form of a cut motion at a Session of the Legislative Council in June 1933, when it was brought to the notice of Government that there was a great deal of corruption in the Police Department. The Dewan-President on that occasion, while observing that it was quite unfair to blame the whole department because there were allegations against a few of its members, assured the House that Government would do what they could and invited the co-operation of the public. Mr. D. S. Mallappa, one of the members of this Committee, moved a similar cut motion in 1936 (in the Budget Session of the Legislative Council) in respect of the same department, but withdrew it after urging that when specific instances were brought to notice, Government or the authorities should not hesitate to take drastic action against those concerned.

14. The subject figured more than once in the Budget Sessions of 1937, 1938 and 1941 in the course of the general discussions on the Budgets. In dealing with the observations made by members in the course of their speeches, the Dewan-President refused to believe that corruption was rampant in the State but agreed that there should be no trace of it anywhere and assured the members that the Heads of Departments concerned and Government would take severe action against officials found to be corrupt, and also pleaded for the co-operation of non-official gentlemen in that behalf. During 1936-42.

15. Considerable attention has been given to the subject, as already indicated above, at the several Sessions of the Houses of Legislature during the last few years. This increasing emphasis laid on the question by the members of the Legislature in the recent Sessions is perhaps understandable in view of the unprecedented expansion of the various departments of Government and the creation of various new ones on account of the conditions created by the war, and the consequent increase of opportunities for the spread of the evil. In the course of these proceedings at the various Sessions, there has been noticeable a great deal of criticism regarding particular departments such as the Excise, Registration, Railway, Police, Public Works, Forest, Food Supplies and Civil Supplies. At the December Session of the Legislative Council in 1943, for instance, a question was asked whether it had come to the notice of Government that bribes were being demanded at Sub-Registrars' offices and if so what action had been taken in the matter. The answer given on behalf of Government was that some allegations had been made and that necessary instructions had been issued to the Inspecting Officers to pay frequent surprise visits. The methods adopted by Government to check corruption were the subject-matter of another question in the same Session, and the reply by Government invited attention to the action taken by them in this behalf through the issue of suitable instructions. Two more questions were asked in the same Session on the subject, one referring in particular to the alleged corruption in the sale of agricultural implements During 1943.

and the other to corruption in the Food Supplies Department. It was pointed out in the replies to both these questions that the cases that came to notice were being enquired into and suitable punishments awarded where necessary, and that arrangements had been made for adequate supervision by the Inspecting Officers. Reference was also made to the revised rules framed in 1917, prescribing the procedure for securing prompt enquiry into cases of serious complaints and irregularities, including those of corruption.

Interpellation re Food Supplies Department in June 1944 at the R. A.

16. In the course of an interpellation at the Budget Session of the Representative Assembly in 1944, statistics were asked for regarding the number of Government servants against whom complaints of corruption had been received ever since the commencement of Food Control operations, the number out of these belonging to each of the Revenue, Excise and Food Supplies Departments, and the number of cases brought to notice by non-officials and of those detected by official agency. It was disclosed that so far, complaints had been received against 80 officials, and that suitable action had been or would be taken in all those cases. It was also pointed out that a Special Superintendent of Police had been posted to the department for the purpose of directing the detection and investigation of such cases. It was admitted in this connection that none of the persons who were alleged to have offered or given bribes had been prosecuted though the bribe-takers in such cases had been. Replies very much on the same lines were given to another question (re complaints of corruption in the Food Supplies Department) in the Budget Session of the Legislative Council in the same year.

Resolution at the November Session of R. A. in 1944.

17. Perhaps the longest debate on this question on the floor of the two Houses was on the resolution moved by Mr. K. Manjappa at the Representative Assembly at its Session of November 1944, referred to in the Government Order. Considerable discussion took place on this resolution and in replying to the debate on behalf of Government, the Hon'ble Minister for Public Works and Industries, after referring to the instructions issued by Government from time to time to the officers concerned in this behalf, and assuring the House of the whole-hearted desire of Government to put down the evil, appealed for public co-operation.

Interpellation at the L. C.

18. It must be noted here that the idea of forming a Committee for giving suitable suggestions in the matter and of forming an Anti-Corruption department was mooted in this resolution for the first time in recent years. The idea was pursued at the Legislative Council Session of June 1945 by means of an interpellation by Mr. K. Manjappa, who asked what steps Government had taken in pursuance of the resolution passed in the Assembly. It was then stated on behalf of Government that the matter was under consideration. In the course of the answers, it was admitted that Government were aware of the prevalence of corruption in some departments, and it was further stated by the Hon'ble Minister (Mr. M. A. Sreenivasan) answering the question :—

"Government are second to none in their anxiety to put down corruption and eradicate this evil which is a shame on the services. They have taken every possible measure and it will take me too long to narrate those measures. I may assure the Honourable Members of this House that the eradication of corruption has been prominently under consideration. The fact that the particular resolution passed last year is still under consideration does not mean that other measures that are considered more appropriate or of a more effective character have not been adopted."

Cut motion at the same Session.

19. The matter was taken up again in the course of debate on the cut motion at the same Session of the Legislative Council moved by the same member. In the course of the speeches by the non-official members, references were made to the resolution of the Assembly and it was pointed out that action should have been taken in pursuance of that resolution; and it was also urged that a special agency or department should be set up and an active and concerted drive against corruption instituted. In the course of the replies by the Government spokesmen, it was stated that while they were not going to assert that there was no corruption in the State and were not also against the cut motion, vigorous steps had already been taken for suppressing the evil, several officials, high and low, having been dealt with according to Rules on charges of corruption, and that admittedly the conditions in Mysore were certainly not as bad as they were in some places outside.

Ultimate result of the representations.

20. It will thus be seen that during a period of over two decades, the representatives of the public in the Mysore Legislature have, on and off, pressed the matter for the attention of Government and from the replies given by the Head of the Administration and by the Members of Government and Ministers from time to time, it is also clear that they had in view all the time the necessity for taking all possible measures, without going to the length of appointing a Committee. Finally, however, they yielded to the popular demand, and this Committee came into being.

21. After having gone through the various stages of discussion which have been detailed above, the Committee proceeded to collect all relevant information that would help them in framing necessary recommendations and instituted enquiries, such as, statistics pertaining to cases of corruption dealt with during the last three years, revision and reorganisation of the scales of pay and allowances of subordinates in all departments getting below Rs. 250 per mensem, the number of offences detected and dealt with under the Defence of India Rules since the commencement of control operations, the nature and extent of executive powers now exercised by subordinates of the various departments, and the number of surprise inspections conducted by Heads of Departments and Deputy Commissioners under the rules.

22. Procedure of the Committee.—At one of the earliest meetings, the Chairman of the Committee indicated in a brief note the question of procedure from which the following extracts may be quoted :—

"While it is necessary to study Government action in British India and some of the Indian States regarding this important matter, it is also necessary to keep in view the local conditions prevailing in Mysore when examining the question whether the orders already in force are adequate to meet the present situation.

"It is needless to assert that there are two sides to the question. Public attention is generally bestowed on Government Servants when they fall victim to the temptation of taking bribe, but adequate attention is not paid to the fact that the Public Servants, while under the temptation referred to above, are to a great extent influenced by the dishonesty of corrupt practice indulged in by the public who have anything to do with them in their official capacity. If, therefore, corruption has increased in the Public Services, the practice on the part of those who offer bribes also has correspondingly increased.

* * * *

"What are the causes for this state of affairs? We may deal with the question from another aspect. As preventive measures, we have quite a large set of rules for the guidance of officers in the Public Services, specially superior officers, who are really responsible for the good conduct of their subordinates. But very little attention seems to have been paid in the past to encourage members of the public to come forward with information and also to give protection to those who give information of the kind referred to above, even if they be culprits in the eyes of Law for having offered the bribe.

"We may compare the Rules that have been framed in other Provinces, especially in the Central Provinces, United Provinces and Bombay and see to what extent they may be amplified and improved upon and then we may start to draw up a complete list of suggestions for the acceptance of Government in this behalf."

23. To elicit public opinion the Committee decided to frame a questionnaire consisting of sixteen questions, which will appear as Appendix III at the end of this Report. The questions were directed to bring out the salient features of the problem in all its bearings. The Committee issued the Questionnaire in a printed form both in English and in Kannada to the undermentioned persons and institutions :-

1. Members of the Legislative Council.
2. Members of the Representative Assembly.
3. Heads of Departments.
4. Deputy Commissioners of Districts.
5. Presidents of City and Town Municipalities.
6. Presidents of District Boards.
7. Bar Associations.
8. Merchants' Associations.
9. Chamber of Commerce.
10. Editors of the local Newspapers.,

24. Copies were sent to the Publicity Officer to Government for making them available to the Press through the agency of the Press Table. Special arrangements were made for the distribution of copies of the Questionnaire to the Representative Assembly members at Mysore while the Assembly was in Session. Copies were also supplied to several prominent non-official gentlemen either at the instance of the Chairman and of the members of the Committee or on their asking for them. Time was allowed till the end of October 1945 to reply to the Questionnaire, but subsequently the period within which replies were to be sent was, at the request of certain sections of the public, extended till the middle of November 1945. A statement containing the number of persons and institutions addressed and the number who replied appears in Appendix IV of this report, followed by a complete list of those who replied (vide Appendix IV-A). It will be seen therefrom that only about 26·9 per cent of those addressed actually have sent in replies.

25. The fact that a Questionnaire was being issued to the persons and associations already mentioned above, was duly reported to Government in the Committee's communication of 27th September 1945, and a request was made that Government may be pleased to give an assurance that any information or statement made in answer to the Questionnaire, whether of an incriminating character or otherwise, should be immune from any action to which the individuals concerned may be liable, and that no such statement or information should be made use of against them by Government.

26. To this request Government replied that as the function of the Committee was not to enquire into complaints and cases but only to report on the nature and extent of the evil and the modus operandi and to suggest remedial measures, it seemed quite possible to return the fullest answers to the questions without seeking to incriminate or implicate any individual in a manner which would come under the definition of defamation, and that in the circumstances, they considered that it would not be desirable to grant any special protection or immunity.

27. From the above it would be noted that the question of procedure to be followed by the Committee was thus more or less settled; they awaited replies to the Questionnaire from the various sources which they decided to approach.

CHAPTER I.

Existing Anti-corruption Measures in and outside the State.

28. We begin with an account of the several measures in force in Mysore for checking corruption. For the sake of comparison and enabling a better understanding of some of our recommendations, it is necessary to make mention of the measures taken by some other Governments in India, more particularly in recent years. These measures may be divided broadly into two classes—Statutory and Administrative—and will be dealt with in that order.

(i) Mysore.

29. Statutory Measures.—As statutory measures, we have in Mysore the usual provisions of the Indian Penal Code making punishable the offences of accepting illegal gratification, etc. The substantive portions of the relevant sections are reproduced below:

Public servant taking a gratification other than legal remuneration, in respect of an official act.

Sec. 161.—Whoever being or expecting to be a public servant, accepts or obtains, or agrees to accept, or attempts to obtain from any person, for himself or for any other person, any gratification whatever, other than legal remuneration, as a motive or reward for doing or forbearing to do any official act or for showing or forbearing to show, in the exrecise of his official functions, favour or disfavour to any person, or for rendering or attempting to render any service or disservice to any person, with the Legislative or Executive Government of India, or with the Government of any Presidency, or with any public servant, as such, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

Punishment for abetment by public servant of the offences defined in sections 162 and 163.

Sec. 164.—Whoever, being a public servant, in respect of whom either of the offences defined in the last two preceding sections is committed, abets the offence, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

Public servant obtaining any valuable thing without consideration, from persons concerned in any proceeding or business transacted by such public servant.

Sec. 165.—Whoever being a public servant, accepts or obtains, or agrees to accept or attempts to obtain, for himself or for any other person, any valuable thing without consideration, or for a consideration which he knows to be inadequate, from any person whom he knows to have been, or to be, or to be likely to be concerned in any proceeding or business transacted or about to be transacted by such public servant, or having any connection with the official functions of himself or of any public servant to whom he is subordinate, or from any person whom he knows to be interested in or related to the person so concerned, shall be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.

30. The offences under these Sections, it may be noted, are not cognizable. While only the public servants concerned are made punishable under these Sections, those who give bribes are punishable as abettors under Section 109, I.P.C.

31. Administrative Measures.—The administrative measures in Mysore are of two kinds: preventive and procedural. The former classification includes all those measures which are calculated to prevent a public servant from stooping to corrupt practices; the latter class of measures provides for the procedure to be adopted in cases detected or otherwise coming to notice.

(a) Preventive: — (i) Government Servants' Conduct Rules.

32. As preventive measures we have, first, the Government Servants' Conduct Rules and of these, those which bear directly on the question we are dealing with may be briefly touched upon. These are printed in extenso in Appendix V. The receiving of any gift, reward or gratuity by officers, apart from their lawful remuneration, without the previous sanction of Government, except articles of trifling value such as flowers, fruits, etc., is prohibited under these rules. The holding of public demonstrations and tea parties in honour of Government servants and the presentation of addresses to them is also definitely discouraged. Lending and borrowing by Government servants in areas or from persons under their jurisdiction are prohibited, and disciplinary action to the extent of dismissal has been prescribed for habitual or incorrigible indebtedness among officials. Government servants are not to acquire immovable property without obtaining competent sanction, and the grant of Government lands at upset price to Gazetted officers except under special orders of Government is strictly prohibited. Government servants holding or possessing lands must not take a direct part in the cultivation of such lands, and every Government servant or candidate for Government service must make to the Government through the usual channel, a declaration of all immovable property held or acquired by him from time to time or held and managed by his wife and dependants. Deputy Commissioners and Heads of Departments are to maintain registers in prescribed forms of all lands held by themselves and their subordinates.

33. Further, Government servants are precluded from making speculative investments, from taking part in private trade or employment, from receiving free passes for or securing free entry into cinemas or other places of entertainment. In connection with the tours undertaken by officers who are required under the rules to do so, it is laid down that previous notice and money in advance should always be given to those entrusted with the task of obtaining camp supplies, particularly village officers. The acceptance or offer of free supplies would, according to the rules, be regarded with disfavour by Government and would be attended with severe punishment.

34. Besides these rules, an auxiliary set of instructions and directions have been issued from time to time in the form of Confidential Circulars, reproduced in Appendix VI. Prominent and one of the earliest among these is the one issued by the Dewan (the Chairman of this Committee) in 1922, almost immediately after his assuming that office, exhorting Deputy Commissioners of Districts to pay close attention to the detection of cases of corruption, to pay surprise visits to subordinate offices, to make confidential enquiries and maintain records of the information collected by them and to make full use of them in putting down irregularities. More Circulars have followed since then, and what is perhaps the latest, issued in 1943, has reiterated the need for constant vigilance and supervision by routine as well as surprise inspections by superior officers. (ii) Circulars

35. The relevant rules regarding the procedure for dealing with cases of irregularities are contained in Chapter X of the Manual of General Circulars and (b) Procedural.

Standing Orders. These rules were first drawn up, in a form closely resembling the present one, by the Efficiency Audit Branch in 1915, providing for the deputation of an officer of the Efficiency Audit Department for investigating and reporting on the allegations in certain cases. They were revised in 1917, and as so revised, are in force at the present moment. They are primarily applicable to officers who are not removeable except with the sanction of Government, but the procedure laid down is to be followed mutatis mutandis in the case of subordinate officials also. According to these rules, in every case of alleged grave misconduct on the part of an officer in connection with his public duties, an informal and confidential enquiry is first held either by the official superior or by an officer deputed specially for the purpose by Government. If this preliminary investigation were to disclose misconduct of a grave character, the competent authority decides whether the matter should be dealt with departmentally or whether a prosecution should be instituted. When it is decided to prosecute the official, he is placed at once under suspension, and if conviction in a Court of Law results, the departmental punishment is generally awarded without further enquiry. If, on the other hand, the official is acquitted, he will be entitled to reinstatement unless the acquittal is on technical grounds or on account of a legal flaw or collusion of parties. The departmental enquiry, when held, will be in quasi-judicial form by an officer nominated for the purpose, who will frame distinct and definite charges and furnish copies thereof to the accused; evidence will be adduced in the presence of the latter and the right of cross-examining the prosecution witnesses and of defending himself is given to him. Though the enquiring officer is not bound by the technical rules of the Evidence Act, the enquiry is to be conducted on the universally recognised canons of fair dealing. Even evidence which conduces to moral conviction should be submitted by the enquiring officer for consideration by the authority competent to pass orders or award punishment.

36. With regard to the nature of punishment, the rules lay down that fraud and dishonesty, continued and wilful negligence and all offences involving moral turpitude meet with their appropriate punishment in dismissal; and in every case in which that punishment is inflicted on just grounds, the official concerned should be deemed to have been permanently excluded from Government employment. Dismissals are required to be notified in the Gazette in cases where the appointment of the official concerned was gazetted, or when it is specially desired to exclude him from re-employment, or when it is considered necessary to notify it for any other reason. An appeal lies from an order of dismissal to the authority superior to the one passing the order.

37. The sufficiency and efficacy of the measures detailed above will be considered in due course.

(ii) Other parts of India.

38. The measures taken by some of the other Governments in India also fall naturally into the two categories mentioned earlier, viz., Statutory and Administrative. It will however be advantageous to deal with them together while taking up the instance of each of the Governments about which we have information. The more recent measures taken everywhere have naturally a close bearing on the conditions created by the war and mostly have application to the Defence Services and the Supply and Railway departments.

(i) Government of India.

39. Two Ordinances were issued by the Central Government in 1943, one constituting a Special Police Establishment and the other empowering the constitution of Special Tribunals to try cases of bribery. The investigations of the Special Police Establishment constituted by the first Ordinance are to have three main purposes:

(i) to discover corruption in the Defence Services and in the Supply and Railway Departments and to enquire into all offences and allegations of corruption in those departments forwarded to them by the officers concerned;

(ii) to obtain sufficient evidence for the successful prosecution, either before a Court-martial or a Criminal Court, of those concerned in it, or when that is not possible, for regular departmental proceedings; and

(iii) to make recommendations for remedying any organisational defects which facilitate corruption.

40. The Special Tribunals constituted under the second Ordinance consist of three persons, two of whom including the presiding officer are generally persons eligible for appointment as High Court Judges, and are empowered to try all the cases referred to in the Ordinance generally cases of bribery detected and investigated by the Special Police Establishment) and to pronounce any sentence authorised by Law. No appeals lie from their decisions but revision petitions may be preferred to the High Court. It is interesting to note that with regard to the rules of evidence in such cases, the following provisions in the nature of innovations appear in the Ordinance.—

(i) the fact that any person charged before the Tribunals under Section 161 or Section 165 of the I.P.C. is in possession, for which he cannot satisfactorily account, of property or pecuniary resources disproportionate to his known sources of income may be proved and may be taken into consideration by the Special Tribunals as a relevant fact in deciding whether he is or is not guilty of the offence charged; and

(ii) where it is proved, in the course of such charges, that the person accused has accepted or agreed to accept any gratification from any person seeking to obtain any facilities for transport or contract from any Government or department thereof, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that he accepted it as a motive or reward such as is mentioned in Section 161, I.P.C.

(ii) The Punjab.

41. It is in the Punjab that the earliest steps for eradicating corruption appear to have been found necessary and adopted. In 1921, the Government constituted a Committee of officials and non-officials to suggest suitable measures for the purpose and the following are among those recommended by them:

(i) Government's intention to stamp out the evil should be widely advertised and the responsibility of superior officers for the conduct of their subordinates impressed on all officers;

(ii) more attention should be paid to the reputation of an official in making promotions;

(iii) active propaganda against the evil should be instituted with the co-operation of non-officials;

(iv) there should be a more careful check over the acquisitions of property by officials;

(v) deterrent and exemplary punishments should be awarded in proved cases; and

(vi) in cases of suspected extortion of bribes the giver should invariably be granted a pardon.

42. The Punjab Government accepted most of the recommendations at the time and took action accordingly, and since then several circulars and instructions have followed. Chief among the other steps taken by that Government are—

(i) the constitution in 1926 of a Panel of retired officers of high status and repute, one among whom would be selected for enquiring into every case of corruption, and

(ii) the establishment in 1929 of a Special Enquiry Agency under the direct control of the Chief Secretary to detect and investigate cases of corruption and to watch suspects.

In one of its recent circulars, the Government has also emphasised the need for a vigorous application of the rule regarding the withholding of pensions of officers whose reputation has been unsatisfactory.

43. The Government of Sind recently set up an Anti-corruption Sub-Committee with reference to the Public Works Department of the Province, and among the principal recommendations made by them are :— (iii) Sind.

(a) that officers should not get their camp supplies through their subordinates but either take them with them to the camps or purchase them through their private servants;

(b) that the personnel taken for touring with officers should be the minimum but that the rate of travelling allowance should be suitably enhanced;

(c) that no officer of Government should accept any tea party at the hands of the public except as a private guest of individuals or from associations and institutions;

(d) that officers should be compelled to give in annual declarations of property—lands, bank deposits, investments, etc., —held by them;

(e) that payment of contractors' bills should be made promptly and officers transgressing this rule severely punished;

(f) that selection of personnel for the services should be made carefully and promotions also given with an eye to honesty and proved merit; and

(g) that persons coming forward to prove that they have offered or were made to offer bribes should be exempted from prosecution.

44. In this case too, the Government were in agreement with most of the recommendations, but in regard to the last, they said that it actually obtained in practice in most cases.

45. Considerable space and attention have been devoted to the subject of corruption in their Report by the Bengal Administration Enquiry Committee, set up by H. E. the Governor in December 1944 under the Chairmanship of Sir Archibald Rowlands, present Finance Member of the Government of India. Their suggestions, (iv) Bengal.

in this behalf, most of which are applicable all over India, are these :

(i) that offences under Sections 161 and 165, Indian Penal Code, should be made cognisable with certain safeguards;

(ii) that the onus of proof of the innocent nature of the transactions in cases of receipt of money or other gratification by a public servant should, as in the U. K. Act of 1906, be on the offerer and the acceptor and not on the prosecution;

(iii) that Section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code should be amended so as to admit in evidence the statements made to police officers in the course of investigations;

(iv) that rules relating to permits and licences in the control departments should be precisely drawn up and selection of officers to exercise powers under them made with the greatest care and supervision over them also tightened;

(v) that public servants should be enjoined to report at once to their superiors any case of offer of bribe; and

(vi) that public servants convicted of corrupt practices should be instantly dismissed and deprived of all their service benefits.

(v) Bombay.

46. The Government of Bombay ordered some time ago the constitution of District Anti-corruption Committees, with the Collector as Chairman and the District Superintendent of Police and two non-officials as members, to co-operate with Government in suppressing the evil and to advise and to take all such measures in consultation with the Heads of Offices in the districts as they consider necessary, including the educating of public opinion.

(vi) Other Provincial Governments.

47. A number of administrative instructions and executive orders have been issued by the Governments of the United Provinces, Central Provinces and Berar, Bengal and Madras on the subject. Two of them, adopted in more than one Province, may be mentioned here. One is to the effect that when five or more disinterested persons join in making specific allegations in writing, signed by them, against any official, investigation and enquiry in pursuance of such a complaint is compulsory; another suggests to officials who are offered bribes the expedient of trying their best to secure witnesses for the transactions without engendering suspicion in the minds of the offerers.

48. The series of circulars issued by the Government of Madras about the way notoriously corrupt officials should be dealt with are noteworthy. According to them, the fact that an officer's reputation is notoriously bad affords just ground for the Government to refuse to continue to be represented or served by him, even though no single act of corruption is judicially proved. The Rowlands Committee of Bengal have also emphasized this idea by quoting in extenso the observations of the Report of the Board of Enquiry re the British Civil Service, set up in 1928. The Indian Police Commission emphasized this same aspect in a very pointed manner as long ago as 1902. What they said is worth quoting:—

"Under Section 117 (3) of the Criminal Procedure Code, the fact that a person is a habitual offender may be proved by evidence of general repute, and if such evidence is admissible to establish a conclusion which may lead to the infliction of imprisonment for a term of three years, the Commission see no reason to exclude it in an enquiry into the character of an officer, when the result of that enquiry will, at the most, result in removal from the public service . . . . . "

(vii) Kashmir.

49. Among the Indian States, those of Hyderabad and Kashmir have been prominent in that they have taken special measures to suppress the evil. Recently, the Government of Kashmir passed an ordinance called the Prevention of Corruption Ordinance, providing for the appointment of a Commissioner (of the status of a High Court Judge) or a Commission (of three persons presided over by a person of that status) to enquire into any case referred to it by His Highness the Maharaja in which it has appeared to him that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the public servant concerned has acquired property by unlawful means while in service. The Commissioner or Commission is to report through the Prime Minister to His Highness the Maharaja who may pass such orders thereon as he deems fit, including an order of confiscation of the unlawfully acquired property.

(viii) Hyderabad.

50. In Hyderabad, an Anti-corruption department headed by a Deputy Director-General of Police and working directly under the orders of the President of the Executive Council is understood to have been set up some time ago. Cases are referred to it for investigation by the President, and reports are submitted to him. A Government servant is given the option of resignation or facing an Enquiry Commission in case his prosecution is deemed undesirable or expected to be infructuous. Cases fit for prosecution are launched before a Special Tribunal consisting of two members of the Board of Revenue and one non-official, in case they involve persons of the Supply Department, and in the ordinary courts in other instances.

51. The committee have a considerable amount of information before them about some of the measures taken in this behalf by certain Governments outside India, but they deem it unnecessary to give an account of them as their object is to arrive at measures suited to the local conditions and needs.

CHAPTER II.

Results of the Committee's Investigations.—Replies to the Questionnaire.

52. In the light of the study made in the last Chapter of the existing Anti-corruption measures in and outside the State, we now propose to deal with the results of the Committee's investigations, firstly by the issue of the Questionnaire, and secondly by means of enquiries addressed to Heads of Departments and Deputy Commissioners and in other ways. In this Chapter will be set out an analysis of the replies received from officials and non-officials to the Questionnaire.

The questionnaire.

53. The Questionnaire issued by the Committee (vide Appendix III) consisted of sixteen questions, the last of which, for reasons already indicated, may be left out of consideration. The other questions bear principally on—

(i) the nature and extent of corruption in the services at present and the classes of persons involved;

(ii) the effect of war conditions and other factors on the problem; and

(iii) the remedial measures, including the mobilization of public opinion against the evil.

The response.

54. The Questionnaire was sent to over 550 persons and institutions and replies were received from a little over a quarter of the number addressed. The response was as good in its quality and suggestiveness as the Committee might have desired. Special notes on the subject were furnished in a few instances in addition to the replies, and we are obliged to the gentlemen concerned for helping the Committee in this manner. We have examined all the replies with the care and consideration they called for, and have taken due note of the opinions expressed and the suggestions made in the course of those replies in coming to our own conclusions and making recommendations.

General divergence of official and non-official views.

55. One prominent feature of the replies may as well be mentioned at the outset, and that is, the general divergence of the non-official from the official standpoint in regard to the several questions. Whether the question is about the existence or the scope and extent of corruption or about the need for special measures or the grant of immunity to informants and bribe-givers, the consensus of non-official opinion is in most respects somewhat divergent from the official view. It may be said generally that while the official bloc of witnesses emphasizes the need to protect officers from malicious complaints and shows a disinclination to support the adoption of special measures outside the existing rules, the non-officials are equally emphatic about the prevalence of this evil in an aggravated form in recent years and the necessity for adopting drastic measures to deal with it adequately.

56. There are other opinions of still another class which may be regarded as a via media between the two. The general impression the Committee have formed on this point is, that supervising officers of Government do require a greater sense of responsibility, and this perhaps may be done by introducing an Anti-corruption Drive as indicated in the Recommendatory Chapter of this Report. While it may not be wholly correct to assume that the tendency disclosed in the replies of the supervising Officers to the Questionnaire is in the nature of a defence in answer to the charge of not carrying out instructions fully and strictly as regards prompt enquiries into complaints, punishments in cases proved, surprise inspections, confidential reports, etc., there can, however, be no doubt that a certain amount of laxity has been shown—according to the information before the Committee—which leaves, in the minds of Government servants a sense of security against punishment for misconduct and dishonesty.

57 We will now proceed to give an abstract of the answers to the various groups of questions.

Questions 1 and 4—Non-official views.

58. The majority of non-official answers given to these questions indicate the existence of corruption in most Departments of Administration but particularly in the Railway, Revenue, Excise, Forest, Public Works, Registration, Food and Civil Supplies and Silk Control departments. As regards the kinds of bribes and the forms adopted by the bribe-givers, it is alleged that besides those suggested in Question 1, viz., mamools percentages on bills, payment of money or in kind such as supplies, etc., there are certain forms which fall into the following categories:—

(i) obtaining domestic supplies;
(ii) receiving gifts and presents;

(iii) securing free entry or passes into places of amusement;
(iv) free bus travel;
(v) commission for purchases by Government departments, etc.

The latter, the Committee believe, are more or less in the nature of tips or mamools, which are very difficult to detect. The official answers support the above and they attribute the practice to decline in public morality. It is to be noted that the official view generally is against wide-spread prevalence of corruption, although Public Works and Railway departments have been quoted by some as departments in which corruption is rampant.

Official views.

59. Proceeding to the next group of questions, viz., that relating to the present position with reference to war conditions and other factors, we see that a very large majority of non-officials are of opinion that bribery and corruption have indeed increased in the State to such an extent that further steps are necessary in addition to the Rules and Orders already in force. Most of them say that the conditions created by the war, such as the introduction of controls with the system of permits and licences, inflation, increased cost of living, etc., have to a very large extent been responsible for the present position; but they are inclined to the belief that the evil which has been in existence for a long time past has only received an accession of strength in recent years and has also had opportunities of spreading to the new departments created as a result of the war. Several factors besides war conditions are mentioned as having brought into being the present state of affairs. Among these are—

Questions 2., 3 and 5—Non-Official views:

(i) the inadequate scales of pay of subordinate officials, the high cost of living and their inability to maintain themselves and their families according to their usual standards;

(ii) insufficient and ineffective publicity to the present anti-corruption measures, and absence of strict enforcement of those measures;

(iii) failure to take suitable notice of complaints and to award drastic punishments to delinquents, and generally, the lack of determined and earnest efforts on the part of those concerned to put down the evil;

(iv) absence of protection in law to informants and bribe-givers; and

(v) failure to pay due attention in recruitment and promotion to honesty and efficiency.

60. A few other causes, more general in character and somewhat academic in their bearing, such as the widespread illiteracy of the masses, the absence of 'Responsible' Government, the general decline in moral and spiritual values, and the inherent tendency of capitalistic society to breed corruption, are mentioned in certain instances.

Official views.

61. All the officers replying are, with rare exceptions, of the view that corruption has not increased to the extent of rendering special measures necessary and that war conditions alone have been responsible for such increase as there may have been of the evil. One officer however makes mention of the increased work in the several offices in the State and the consequent inability of officers to attend to all the prescribed duties, and almost endorses the general non-official view in that behalf when he says that owing to a mistaken notion of "Ahimsa," most officers are disinclined to report even against really bad men or to take drastic action against them. With regard to the question of punishments, another officer complains of the rather frequent, and as a rule undesirable, intervention by some non-official members of the Legislative bodies in the usual course of enquiry into cases of corruption with a view to securing exoneration or reduction in the punishment of delinquent officials.

Questions 6 to 14: Non-official views on—(a) Questions 6 and 7.

62. The next group of questions, viz., that relating to remedial measures of various kinds, is of course the most important. Consistent with the view that they have expressed under Question 2, most non-officials assert that special measures, both statutory and administrative in character, are necessary besides the strict enforcement of the existing rules as suggested in Question 7.

63. Among the normal administrative measures suggested by a very large section generally with reference to all departments are—

(i) improvement in the scales of pay and the prospects of subordinate officials with a view to relieving them of economic hardships, and at the same time the inculcation of thrifty habits among them and sympathetic and helpful guidance to them by superior officers;

(ii) strict enforcement of the rules regarding transfers at the end of three years and making village officers also liable for such transfers;

(iii) discouragement of extensions;

(iv) systematic weeding out of corrupt and suspected officials by setting traps and baits and by awarding severe penalties without regard to rank or status; and

(v) paying more attention to character and education in recruitment and promotion and avoidance of stagnation and supersessions and consequent demoralization in the services.

64. Certain remedies have been suggested by some with reference to particular departments. It is for instance said that in the Traffic Section of the Railway Department which usually comes in for the most violent criticism, the allotment of wagons for transport of goods should be entrusted only to the Gazetted Officers with "Wagon Vigilance Committees" in important commercial centres; and in the Registration Department, it is stated that the method of payment of registration fees in the form of stamps and of presenting the documents to the Amildar in the first instance may well be tried.

65. A very large number amongst the non-officials again suggest the constitution of a special agency for detecting and investigating cases of corruption as suggested in Question 8, though there are quite a few who doubt the value and efficacy of such an agency which in their view is a double-edged weapon and may become, if not properly manned, an instrument of oppression and blackmail rather than a power for good. There are some indeed who have, on the other hand, held that a 'Gestapo' or an 'Espionage' system should be established. The kinds of organizations envisaged in the replies are too numerous to permit a representation of all, in this necessarily brief survey; but the more prominent and frequently mentioned among them may be referred to:— (b) Questions 8 and 9.

(i) non-official investigators to be appointed in each taluk, their names being known only to a few top-men;

(ii) C.I.D. staff responsible to non-official leaders or to the Legislature;

(iii) non-official committees in districts or taluks with powers to enquire into and dispose of petitions re cases of corruption either by themselves or under the orders of a Central Committee;

(iv) a committee of officials and non-officials with a very highly placed officer as chairman and a detective staff for investigating cases and reporting results to the committee for disposal; and

(v) an Anti-corruption department under a very high and responsible officer with necessary detective and other staff, and with or without district advisory committees.

66. According to some, a special agency need be constituted only for a short period and dispensed with when no longer needed. The duties of such special agencies are mentioned as the detection, investigation and disposal of cases of corruption and the watching of suspects and of officials with reference, in particular, to the vicissitudes in the extent of their private property.

67. Opinion regarding Special Tribunals for the trial of these cases is mostly divided, but a fairly large number are for having them, especially in cases of a sensational or important character, or where gazetted officers are concerned, or when ordinary courts cannot cope with the work. The composition of such a Special Tribunal that seems feasible in the eyes of the larger number is: one presiding officer of the status of a High Court Judge, with non-officials as members. There are some who suggest that one or the other of the various committees suggested should play the role of Tribunals. It is again stated by some that the decisions and sentences of these Tribunals should be non-appealable; one or two, however, suggest appeals to the Dewan and a few others to Government.

(c) Question 10,

68. The idea of introducing Efficiency Audit, mooted in Question 10, has been almost universally welcomed, though there are a few who say that one or the other of the special agencies described above would be preferable and also sufficient. The large majority want that the system should be revived more or less as a permanent measure and placed directly under the charge of the Head of the Administration (one view being that it should be under the control of the Legislature). The need for keeping a constant watch over the system of work in the Departments and to ensure efficiency by reducing the scope for irregularities has been emphasised in this connection.

(d) Question 11,

69. As regards the powers enumerated in question 11, apart from a small minority, all are of the view that some or all of these powers should be granted, though not necessarily to the Efficiency Audit staff as suggested in the question. That the Special Detective Agency should be invested with these powers is the view of a large number. There are some who have advocated the conferment of these powers on Heads of Departments and some others on the Special Tribunals proposed by them. There are a few who would make the exercise of these powers subject to the jurisdiction of courts.

70. While the majority are in favour of the grant of all the powers mentioned, there are a good number who are against the idea of compelling officers to furnish statements of property belonging to their wives and children and near relatives, or of conferring the powers of search and seizure of property. There is also the opinion that the grant of any of these powers except that of calling for particulars about the officer himself would be inquisitorial and harassing in character, and that legislation for compelling banks, etc., to furnish information in respect of their clients would be undesirable. On the other hand, there are some who have suggested the taking of additional powers, such as power of confiscation of property acquired by corrupt means, and some others have advanced the suggestion that a comparison of the state of property of every official now and prior to the commencement of the war should be undertaken and necessary action taken in the light of the figures collected.

71. A number of measures which require legislation in some form have been suggested by the majority of those replying. An omnibus enactment embodying all administrative measures in force and defining the offences and punishments is suggested by a fair number, in the view that a statutory provision in such matters is always the safest and the most reliable. Some have of course, pointed out the necessity of amending the existing law or promulgating a fresh law for the constitution of Special Tribunals. The large majority, however, have suggested the amendment of the Law for the purpose of giving protection to informants and bribe-givers. Most of them suggest unqualified protection in all cases, but there are many who, being sensible of the fact that such protection might be used for harassing officials, are for restricting such protection to cases in which the giver has been led or compelled in any manner whatsoever to give the bribe. Amendment of the Law has also been suggested for shifting the burden of proof from the prosecution to the accused in cases of bribery charges, for relaxing the measure of proof required in such cases for conviction, and for enhancing the scales of punishment. (e) Questions 12 and 14.

72. In regard to the idea of setting up District Anti-corruption or Vigilance Committees for aiding the official machinery in combating corruption, there are pronounced differences of opinion. But the larger number are for the setting up of such Committees, and (f) Question 13.

though there are a good many who are not content to let them play an advisory role or merely to do anti-corruption propaganda but want that they should be given specific powers for investigation and report and even punishment. There are on the other hand, a good number who say that far from being in a position to do any good, they might do a lot of evil by extending corruption to non-officials and by becoming instruments of oppression and blackmail. The usefulness of the Committees is in any case genuinely doubted by a few. Among the other measures suggested for mobilising public opinion are—

(1) propaganda in the Press, on the platform, and by broadcasting in villages and towns,

(2) eradication of illiteracy, and

(3) a system of rewards to informants and immunity to them and to bribe-givers.

Official views on Questions, 6 to 14.

73. The views of the officers regarding remedial measures generally and regarding the particular suggestions made in the relevant questions may be briefly stated. As indicated already, the general view among them is that no special measures are needed and that a strict enforcement of the existing rules would do for the most part. It is said, however, that any fresh measures necessary would be of an administrative character, such as improvement in the scales of pay of subordinates and providing them with certain amenities such as quarters, etc., the imperative need for which has been earnestly emphasized by almost all. In the above view, therefore, the constitution of any special detective or other organisation is generally opposed by this section though there are one or two who say that their existence for a short time may have a salutary effect by keeping officials alert and inducing wholesome fear in their minds. Necessarily also, the suggestion regarding the constitution of Special Tribunals has not found favour in this section. With regard to Efficiency Audit, however, there is an almost wholesale support for its revival. There is, in general, no disposition among them to support the grant of all the powers enumerated in Question 11 to the Efficiency Audit or other organization. A good number, however, are agreeable to the grant of these powers with safeguards such as, reference to superior authority or to a Court of Law before actual exercise.

74. In answer to Question 12, no fresh statutory measures are generally advocated but increase in the scales of punishment for bribery offences provided for in the Indian Penal Code, and legislation for compelling banks etc.. to disclose details of property of public servants who are their clients are recommended by one or two. The idea of any wholesale protection to informants or bribe-givers is not supported, but there are a good many who have suggested the grant of exemption from prosecution in cases where there is reason to believe that the bribe has been extorted rather than voluntarily paid—exemption not by legislation but by an administrative act.

75. The idea of constituting District Anti-corruption Committees is deprecated in some cases for the reason that it will induce officials to shift their loyalty from the appropriate quarters to such Committees, but there are a few instances in which their formation is supported.

76. The above summary exhausts all the different shades of opinion—some pronounced, others vague and indefinite—that have been brought to the notice of the Committee through the answers to the Questionnaire issued by them. It is to be conceded that they could not be regarded as valuable evidence in support of the establishment of any particular point, but can at best be regarded as a general indication of public opinion, assuming that the answers from those who have chosen to answer the Questionnaire do represent certain sections of that opinion—either articulate or not—to which the Committee will give due weight with reference to the inferences that they have drawn as a result of their other investigations that will be dealt with in the next Chapter.

CHAPTER III.

Results of the Committee's Investigations (contd.)—Other Investigations and Enquiries.

77. The method and purpose of the Committee's investigations, apart from the issue of the Questionnaire, have already been described, and the matters regarding which inquiries have been made have also been mentioned. It is important to examine the material thus available, not only to judge the extent to which existing rules have been given effect to but to have an idea of the fundamental principles and factors leading to a proper appraisement of the problem.

(i) Statistics of cases of corruption during the last three years.

78. One method of judging how far the existing rules and orders have been given effect to and to what extent attempts have been made to put down the evil is to take into account the number of cases of corruption or allied offences (both against the Statutes and against the Rules) dealt with in recent years. Accordingly, very soon after the Committee was constituted, an enquiry was addressed to all the Heads of Departments and the Deputy Commissioners of Districts requesting them to furnish, in the form of a statement, information regarding the number of cases of corruption and bribery dealt with by them during the last three years. A tabular statement giving the number of cases and of persons involved and the nature of disposal in each of the departments in which such cases were dealt with is given in Appendix VII, and is followed up by a list of departments from which nil returns have been received (vide Appendix VII-A).

Conclusions drawn from the tabular statement: (a) Absence of cases in some departments;

79. It is seen from the tabular statement that 368 cases involving 491 persons were investigated and enquired into during the last three years, and that in 38 departments, big and small, no cases were reported or enquired into during that period. There are two main points to be noticed here. One is the reported absence of any cases in departments like Public Works, Forest and Income-tax, which have been the targets of special attack not only in the Legislative bodies but in the replies to the Questionnaire. It would be a matter more for gratification than for regret if the absence of reported cases were to mean that there is no corruption in these and other departments similarly placed. But if, as is reputed, corruption does exist in these departments the inference is that it has not been detected either owing to lack of supervision or because there is no adequate machinery to check such malpractices. The other point is that, if the information derived from the replies to the Questionnaire and other sources is to be believed, the smallness of the total number of cases, namely 368, in a period of three years and of cases particularly in departments like Sericulture, Silk Control, Agriculture, Excise, Registration and Medical, which also have often been the subject of public criticism, would indicate a similar inference in respect of them also.

and (b) Smallness of the number on the whole and in certain departments.

80. It is significant that the majority of cases—almost all—have arisen out of complaints by private parties, either personally or through signed or anonymous petitions. The rest of the cases are stated to have been reported by the District and Taluk staff, such as the Amildar, the D. S. P., Police Inspector and others. Most of these cases also, it may be presumed, must have been taken up by the concerned officers on the basis of complaints made or petitions given to them. There seem to have been very few instances in which cases have been detected during any sudden or surprise visits or inspections by superior officers, or by watching the conduct of particular officials or by laying baits for them (as has been done in certain cases in British India). There have been a few instances in which aggrieved parties themselves have complained, but the majority of cases are those taken up in pursuance of petitions of a general nature, frequently by several persons acting together.

How cases have arisen generally.

81. One other prominent feature that emerges from these data is that the majority of the officials involved are subordinate officials and there have been only about a dozen cases of Gazetted Officers dealt with. The highest officer in the Revenue Department against whom a complaint was made is an Assistant Commissioner, and he is the only person of that status against whom a complaint seems to have been made; there have been seven or eight Amildars also among the Gazetted Officers. The rest of the officials dealt with in the Revenue (and also Food) Departments are of the rank of Special Sheristedars, Food Inspectors, Assistant Inspectors, Revenue Inspectors, Clerks, and Village Officers. Most of the cases dealt with in the Police Department are against Constables, less frequently against Daffedars and Sub-Inspectors, and in only one instance against a Police Inspector. In the Medical Department, a complaint is stated to have been made against an officer of a Surgeon's rank and suitable action is stated to have been taken against him; in the only two other cases dealt with in that department, the officials concerned were Sub-Assistant Surgeons. One peculiar feature in the Registration Department is that complaints have mostly been made collectively against the Sub-Registrar and his staff. In the Agricultural Department it is the Agricultural Inspectors and below, in the Railways the Station Masters and below, and in the Education Department Assistant Inspectors and below, who are involved in the alleged malpractices. It is thus seen that in over 90 per cent of the cases, it is the non-gazetted staff that is concerned, and a very large number of even these cases are those in which officials getting salaries below Rs. 40 or Rs. 50 per mensem are involved.

Nature of the cases—Departments affected

82. As regards the nature of the cases, one thing that attracts attention is the very large number connected with Food Supply and other control operations. In many instances, the exact nature of the cases has not been specified by the officers concerned; but a rough computation, on the basis of specific information given, shows that slightly over 50 per cent of the cases (and indeed a larger percentage, if the number of persons involved is to be taken into consideration) relate to Food and Civil Supplies, Sericulture and other control departments.

Nature of disposal Punishments awarded.

83. An idea regarding the nature of the disposal of the cases can be had from the tabular statement. Quite a large number of dismissals have been ordered, though it is only in two cases that they are understood to have actually been notified. Suspension too has been resorted to in a large number of cases, and prosecutions are seen to have been launched only in about seventeen cases. In a few cases, transfers of the Government servants concerned have been affected, though this is mostly in cases in which the allegations have not been proved.

84. Though no general delay in the disposal of these cases is apparent (the period taken varying generally from a few days to 3 or 4 months) there are about a dozen in which more than a year has elapsed between the dates of cognizance and disposal and there are at least two cases in which the delay is as much as 20 months.

Surprise inspections to prevent and detect irregularities.

85. One aspect of the question of detection of cases of corruption, namely, surprise inspections and visits and the detection of cases of corruption and other irregularities by superior officers by that means, was dealt with by the Committee specially, and an independent enquiry was addressed to the Heads of Departments (such of them as were considered to be directly concerned) and Deputy Commissioners regarding the number of surprise inspections held or visits paid by them during the last three years, in pursuance of the Circulars issued to them by Government (referred to in one of the previous chapters). Replies have been received from the majority of those addressed, and in several of the cases where they are said to have been conducted, it is stated that no irregularities were discovered.

86. A statement giving the number of surprise inspections by those of the officers who have conducted them and who have replied is to be found in Appendix VIII. In the Civil Supplies Department, circulars are stated to have been issued to subordinates inviting attention to the Rules and to the need for frequent surprise visit and checks; and in the Food Supplies Department, complaints and allegations are said to have led to inspection and to booking of officials in some instances. No other special features of activity in this behalf are apparent from these statistics.

87. The figures so far furnished, on the other hand, generally convey the impression that the method of surprise inspections and visits—undoubtedly a potent instrument if properly used—has not been resorted to as effectively as it might have been, and this must account partly for the fact that there are very few cases in the statement of cases of corruption referred to above, in which sources other than complaints from the public are mentioned as having been responsible for detecting and dealing with cases.

(ii) The organisation of the principal control departments.

88. It will be seen from the statistics of cases of corruption dealt with during the last three years, how the larger number relate to those administering controls of various kinds. This fact is in accord with the views expressed generally by those replying to the questionnaire. The two most important departments dealing with controls at present are the Food and Civil Supplies Departments, and a brief account of the organization of these departments with particular reference to the machinery employed for detecting and dealing with cases of corruption may be given here so as to enable a better understanding of the present position and of future needs, assuming that the departments will continue for some time more.

Food Supplies.

89. It is not necessary to give any detailed account of the constitution of the Food Supplies Department in Mysore or of the Department of Civil Supplies from the commencement of 1942, or to refer to the detailed orders that were issued under the Defence of India Rules to carry out the control policy which, according to general opinion, give scope for the practice of bribery and corruption. The Committee are chiefly concerned with the organisation and the personnel through which these control operations are being performed and it may therefore be sufficient to state that the Director of Food Supplies who was appointed as a matter of necessity in order to concentrate all operations under one chief executive officer with a suitable staff under him in 1942, was in due course given the assistance of several Officers at his Headquarters, and in the rationed areas, of Rationing Officers, Food Inspectors, Assistant Inspectors, Depot Managers and suitable clerical staff. In the districts, the Deputy Commissioners were given Food Assistants, and the Amildars were given Special Sheristedars and Revenue Inspectors and other subordinates to help in the procurement and distribution of grains. For the detection of cases of smuggling, hoarding, false declaration, illegal transport and infringement of the several food control orders, each Deputy Commissioner was given the assistance of an Assistant Superintendent of Police with the necessary Inspectorate and subordinate police staff. At the Headquarters of the Director there is at present a District Superintendent of Police besides two Inspectors, six Sub-Inspectors, two Daffedars and ten Police Constables forming an Intelligence and Inspection branch, to work directly under the Director of Food Supplies. It will be seen that though the Director has been given an executive staff to help him the primary responsibility in regard to corrupt practices still remains with the District officers who in their turn have been given additional staff to cope with the increased work and responsibility.

Civil Supplies.

90. The Department of Civil Supplies was constituted as an independent organisation recently, i.e., about the middle of 1944, to help the public to secure without difficulty and at control prices certain essential consumer goods, the supplies of which were limited. The Controller is being assisted by an Additional Controller with the status of a Deputy Commissioner, one Assistant Controller with the status of an Assistant Commissioner, and an executive staff of 9 Inspectors and 22 Assistant Inspectors, with pay between Rs. 100 and Rs. 150 and Rs. 50 per mensem, for the Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors respectively. The gazetted officers generally are responsible for the issue of quotas, permits and licences, and the Committee are given to understand that this department carries on its work by holding frequent conferences with the local merchants concerned. Complaints of corruption are enquired into by the Assistant Controller when levelled against the lower subordinates and by the higher officers when levelled against higher officials. There is, it would be observed from the above description, a difference in the management of the two control departments administering the orders under the Defence of India Rules, namely, the Food and the Civil Supplies: for, whereas in the one there is a Police staff for supervision and enquiry into cases of corruption, in the other, viz., Civil Supplies, no special staff exists to deal with corruption cases as such.

(iii) Executive powers of subordinates.

91. The question of opportunities in the temporary departments leads us on to the opportunities for corrupt practices available in the permanent departments, in the shape of the executive powers of subordinate officials of those departments. There are certain executive powers conferred directly by the Statutes, certain others conferred by Rules made by Government under those Statutes, and still others made exercisable by delegation by some superior authority. The nature and extent of these powers are fairly familiar and need no elaboration. The salient features of the powers available to subordinate officials in some of the more important departments like the Revenue, Excise, Forest, Police Departments may,

(i) Revenue. however, be briefly mentioned. In the Revenue Department (which incidentally is the department which deals also with many food control operations in districts) subordinate officials such as Special Sheristedars, Revenue and Food Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors have wide powers, not only under the Defence of India Rules and orders thereunder, but under the regular departmental rules. Revenue Inspectors, who are responsible primarily for the prompt collection of Land Revenue, Loan, Village Panchayet and various kinds of other amounts due to Government, have power to serve notices and effect distraints under warrants issued by Amildars. They report on any unauthorised occupation or cultivation of Government lands, the state of crops in their jurisdiction, the condition of tanks, etc., and send reports and make recommendations re availability of land applied for in darkhast. Also, where there are no separate Village Panchayet Inspectors, they prepare estimates and bills for petty Village Panchayet works to be executed at the expense of Village Panchayet Funds. Recently owing to the existence of Food Control operations, even Village Officers have wide opportunities in preparing village pahani accounts, and supervising officials in checking those accounts, either for distributing patronage or for doing harm.

Excise. 92. In the Excise Department, any Excise Inspector or Assistant Inspector has powers of search in respect of any place in which contraband property is suspected to have been kept. The Inspectors have also powers to arrest accused persons, to grant bail and to summon witnesses in the course of the investigation of cases and to enforce their attendance in Court. Superior excise officials have powers of entry and inspection of shops and premises at which intoxicating liquors or drugs are sold, or checking transport, export, import, etc., of such articles, and of reporting crimes. It is a matter of common knowledge that Rules under the Excise and Opium Acts and the new Excise Duties Acts such as those for coffee, tea, betelnut, tobacco, etc., are very stringent in character and the slightest departure from them will constitute an offence and thus provide opportunities for misuse by unscrupulous officials.

(iii) Forest. 93. In the Forest Department too, the powers vested both under the Act, and under the rules in officials of and below the rank of Range Forest Officers are considerable, such as, requisitioning the services of private individuals in case of forest accidents, reporting cases of trespass into Government Forests, issue of licences and permits for transport of forest produce and the checking of such transport, compounding of offences and arresting and prosecution of accused persons, etc.

94. It is perhaps in the Police Department that the most extensive powers are exercisable by subordinate officials. Here even the lowest, namely, the Constables have powers for good as well as for evil. Their powers under the Statute such as the Criminal Procedure Code and the Police Act are too well-known to need recapitulation. These powers arise in connection with the arrest and custody of supposed offenders, the grant of bail, the investigation of crimes and private complaints, the regulation of traffic, the keeping of the peace and preventing its breach, the inspection and search of premises and persons for various purposes, the disposal of property and various other occasions too numerous to be detailed here. In no department, perhaps, are the opportunities for misuse of powers vested in the subordinates greater. The Indian Police Commission said in their report (1902-03):— (iv) Police.

"Everywhere they went, the Commission heard the most bitter complaints of corruption of the Police. These complaints were made not by non-officials only, but also by officials of all classes including Magistrates and Police Officers, both European and Native. It was generally admitted that Constables possessed very much the characteristics of the classes from which they are recruited, and that corruption was no more an essential characteristic of the Constabe than of the Revenue peon, the process-server, or the Forest Chaprassi. But the corruption of the Constable is more intolerable because of the greater opportunities of oppression and extortion which his police powers afforded, because of the intimate connection he has with the general life of town and country, and because of the possibilities of his being brought at any time into special relation with the individual. The police system seems to the Commission to have aggravated the evil both by underpaying the Constable and by assigning to him duties which he is not qualified to perform. The strongest complaints are made in the country regarding the beat system and regarding the permission too frequently given to Constables to investigate cases, and in the towns regarding the powers of Constables in reference to nuisance cases. It is not difficult to see how the performance of duties such as these by inadequately paid agency must lead to corruption and extortion."

95. All this was said nearly half a century ago and it cannot be said that opportunities and scope for bribery and corruption have decreased under the present system of law and administration, especially in these days of controls when frontiers have to be guarded by ordinary police constables.

96. In these days of controlled transport too, opportunities for graft in the lower ranks of Railway and Silk Control Departments, in the matter of wagon allotments and issue of permits, etc., have increased to an extent urgently calling for comment and notice. There is complaint in the evidence that the infection has extended even to the higher ranks of service.

97. The above review is made to prepare the ground for the recommendations the Committee propose to make not from the academical but only from a practical point of view, believing as they do, that there are in this matter no two opinions on the subject among the representatives of the people and even among a large number of supervising officers of Government who have to deal with the executive functions of their respective departments.

(iv) Pay and Prospects and other Amenities.

Scales of pay of the lower subordinates and recent changes therein.

98. With the object of ascertaining how far the present abnormal situation has been adequately dealt with in regard to the question of giving a living wage to the subordinates of Government in the various departments in recent years, the Committee sent out an enquiry to all Heads of Departments regarding the revision and reorganisation in the scales of pay and allowances of all officials drawing below Rs. 250 per mensem during the last five years. A study of the statistics received in this connection shows that, with a few exceptions, no comprehensive or large-scale alterations in the minimum scales of salary have been effected during that period. Such changes as have taken place naturally have no bearing on the present conditions, as the situation arising out of these have been dealt with in another way. The minimum scales in some of the more important cases may be mentioned here.

99. The scales of pay of the menials in the several departments at present vary from Rs. 9 to Rs. 15 for the lowest class, and up to a maximum of Rs. 18 in the next higher class. Within the last two years, the scale has been made into a progressive one, viz., Rs. 11-1/2-15, in Bangalore City only. The minimum scales of salary for clerks are of varying kinds: generally Rs. 25-1-30-1-40 and less often, grades such as Rs. 20-1-25 (Registration, Revenue), Rs. 20-1-30, Rs. 30-2-40 (Income-tax and Jail Departments), Rs. 25-5/2-50 (Accounts Department) and Rs. 30-3-60 (Geological Department and High Court), obtain. There are also fixed scales: Rs. 20 (Stationery Department), Rs. 25 (Medical), Rs. 30 (Civil Supplies) and Rs. 35 and Rs. 40 (Food Supplies). In the Forest Department, the scales of pay of officials of certain sections have been altered in the course of the last two years, from those like Rs. 25-2-45, Rs. 50-5/2-50, Rs. 30-2-50 and Rs. 22-3/3-40 to those of the type Rs. 30-3-60, Rs. 35-5/2-70, Rs. 50-3-65 and Rs. 30-2-50, respectively. In the Excise Department, the scales of clerks have been varied within the last four or five years from Rs. 60-4-80, Rs. 55, Rs. 45, Rs. 30-3-45, etc., to Rs. 50-5-80, Rs. 40-2-50, Rs. 30-2-40 and Rs. 25-1-30 for purposes of securing uniformity.

100. To take the instance of the lower subordinates of the more important departments exercising executive powers of any kind for good or evil, it may be said generally that no changes of any substantial character in the basic scales of their pay appear to have taken place in recent years. In the Revenue Department, the Revenue Inspectors have fixed scales of pay like Rs. 50, Rs. 40 and Rs. 35 with a Horse Allowance of Rs. 10 per mensem, though in the Food Department, the Special Revenue Inspectors invariably get the highest of these scales with an allowance of Rs. 15. The scales of pay of Rangers in the Forest Department vary from Rs. 50-3-65 to Rs. 125, those of Foresters from Rs. 20-3/2-35 to Rs. 35-2-45, and those of Forest Guards from Rs. 11 to Rs. 18. There are fixed scales in the Excise Department for both the Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors and even the Tree-markers: the Inspectors' scales are Rs. 60, Rs. 70, Rs. 80, Rs. 100, Rs. 125 and Rs. 150; those of Assistant Inspectors Rs. 30, Rs. 35 and Rs. 40; and those of Tree-markers, Rs. 12 and Rs. 13. The Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors get F. T. Allowance of Rs. 20 and Rs. 8 respectively. The process establishment of the Civil Courts consists of Nazirs, Amins and Process-servers whose scales of pay generally are Rs. 30-2-40, Rs. 20-1-26 and

Rs. 11-1/2-18 respectively. The lowest executive subordinates in the Public Works Department, viz., the Sub-overseers, get Rs. 35-5/2-80 plus Rs. 15 C. A., and the Surveyors above them are in grade Rs. 60-5-125-10-175. The case of Guards in the Railway Department calls for special attention both as regards pay and allowances and provision of housing accommodation.

101. It will be seen from the above that even such changes as have taken place have been more with a view to administrative convenience or in some cases, with a view to increase in work and responsibility, than for any other reason. It is only in the Police Department that a consistent and progressive increase has taken place during the last 20 or 25 years; the pay of the constable having risen from Rs. 8 to Rs. 15, that of the Daffedar from a maximum of Rs. 18 to a minimum of Rs. 20, that of Sub-Inspectors from a maximum of Rs. 50 to scales ranging from Rs. 50 to Rs. 80, and that of Inspectors from a minimum of Rs. 60 to a minimum of Rs. 100 per mensem.

Compensation or increased cost of living: Dearness allowance.

102. Turning to the way in which the present situation created by war conditions and the abnormal increases in the cost of living has been dealt with in the State, as over the rest of India, a system of dearness allowances to subordinate officials obtains even here. Dearness allowance was for the first time sanctioned in the State in October 1941 to all whole-time employees of Government getting Rs. 25 and below per mensem at the rate of Re. 1 per mensem. This was increased to Rs. 1-8-0 in January 1942 and up to Rs. 7 and up to officials getting Rs. 80 per mensem in August 1942. The existing scales of dearness allowances are given in the appended table (vide Appendix IX). For the purpose of facilitating comparison, the rates provided for by the Government of India are also given. It is seen that even in places like Bangalore, they are often higher than the Mysore rates. This is one of the factors to be kept in view in considering the adequacy or otherwise of the present Mysore rates.

Cost of living index figures.

103. Another way of examining the sufficiency of the compensation so given would be by a reference to the cost of living statistics. Two types of statistics are collected in Mysore State; one, the working class cost of living index, published for Bangalore City and Kolar Gold Fields since March 1942 and March 1943 respectively, which takes into account only the needs of an industrial worker regarding food, fuel and lighting, rent, clothing and miscellaneous articles, and with the year 1935-36 as the basic period; and the other a wholesale price index for Bangalore City only, compiled since 1914 on the basis of the prices in that year, and taking into account only the prices of the major food grains, pulses, oils, and oil-seeds, other food articles, textiles and other miscellaneous articles. It will easily be seen that neither can closely represent or stand for the cost of living of middle class employees, such as Government Servants mostly are. In Madras Province, statistics are collected for the cost of living of low-paid employees in certain specific mofussil centres, in addition to the working class cost of living index figures, taking the year 1935-36 as the basic period, but such statistics are not available here. A table giving all the available index figures here and in Madras Province and Bombay for every quarter since 1939 is appended. (Vide Appendix X). The statistics pertaining to Mysore will give a clear picture of the upward trend in the cost of living in general and to a limited-extent, the increase in the cost of living of low-paid employees of Government. Considering the enormously increased cost of such requirements as transport, medicine, house-rent, etc., it may not be incorrect to say that the cost of living index number of officials in the subordinate ranks of Government services, if it had been compiled, would not at any time have been less than the highest of the figures in Mysore for the respective periods. It may readily be admitted that the cost of living in Bangalore City is somewhat ahead of that in most other places; but then it must also be remembered that a very large proportion—larger than may be guessed at first of the low-paid employees work in Bangalore City. For instance, the numbers of officials getting below Rs. 50 per mensem in Bangalore City and outside were recently estimated to be respectively 11,391 and 51,246; and those of officials drawing between Rs. 50 and Rs. 80 per mensem to be 1,740 and 2,815 respectively. This shows that nearly 25 per cent of the employees getting Rs. 80 and below per month live at Bangalore; and similarly a large proportion of even the remainder may be expected to be doing duty at the more costly places such as Mysore, Kolar Gold Fields, Bhadravati, Davangere, etc. This means that for a substantial proportion of Government employees, the cost of living has gone up since 1939 by not less than 100 per cent. The present expenditure on dearness and war allowances for officials of all departments (except Education and one or two other minor departments) is estimated to be Rs. 73,50,000, that is, about 30 per cent of the total expenditure on salaries, establishment and allowances (roughly about Rs. 2,45,00,000 excluding the expenditure on the salaries of officers getting above Rs. 800 per mensem who do not get war allowance).

Present needs.

104. We should not have devoted so much space and attention to this aspect of the question had it not been for the realisation that the present situation is not one that is likely to pass off soon; on the other hand, there is every reason to believe that these conditions will continue for a long time to come, even if they have not come to stay for good. It is not necessarily premature or ill-timed, therefore, to conceive of a suitable long-range scheme for alleviating the hardships of low-paid subordinates in this behalf and, above all, to reduce the incentive to corrupt practices. While financial considerations must ultimately put a limit to any such reforms, the bare needs of such employees have always to be kept in view; and a liberal and broad outlook is called for and will ultimately pay in such matters. Such long-range schemes may either take the form of a continuation of the present system of compensation by way of dearness allowance, or of a suitable revision generally in the minimum scales of pay. Which of these courses is feasible is a matter that may be gone into by a Special Commission if necessary.

Other amenities.

105. The question of aiming at a suitable remuneration to Government employees calculated to remove temptations and to secure efficient and conscientious service is only one—though the more important—side of the problem. The bargaining power of the public employee is poor compared with that of an employee in a private concern. Nevertheless, his needs such as housing, education, medical facilities and loans in case of necessity, generally receive markedly less attention than those of an employee, say, in a mill, or a mine, or a factory. While the pay policy is determined by considerations such as preventing officials, as far as possible, from stooping to corrupt practices, the provision of suitable amenities of life to them such as those mentioned above must be dictated partly by considerations of humanity and partly of expediency. It is a matter of common knowledge how officials have to depend mostly on local public help (which may conceivably be forthcoming only in return for sundry official favours) for most of these requirements, and this is admittedly an undesirable feature. Medical and educational facilities there are, no doubt, in a fair measure, but not perhaps to the extent needed. The provision of higher education for their children in cities and towns by parents who are on duty in remote mofussil parts is, for instance, very often a matter of great difficulty.

106. What measures of welfare can and need to be organised here in our State in respect of Government servants, keeping in view the local conditions and standards will thus be another important consideration in any scheme which seeks to reduce to the minimum the incentive to dishonest practices.

107. So far, the Committee have restricted their attention to considerations of mitigating the evil in the lower ranks of the public services. In the face of the persistent complaint of the prevalence of malpractices among at least some of the Government servants in the higher ranks, for which there is not even economic justification, the Committee feel it their duty to call the earnest attention of Government to the necessity for the eradication of this evil by drastic action and the removal of the slur on the fair name of the administration. The Committee have given earnest attention to this problem and the recommendation for the setting up of a special agency for rooting out corruption seems, in their opinion, an adequate provision for achieving this object.

(v) Efficiency and Efficiency Audit.

108. It will be recalled that in one of the questions in the Questionnaire issued by the Committee, the institution of an Efficiency Audit Scheme in a suitable form was specifically suggested, not overlooking the fact that a scheme of the kind was once before introduced and worked in Mysore. The Committee have studied all connected records on the subject and would make the following observations, leaving the matter of its revival or re-establishment in a more elaborate form to be dealt with later.

109. The question of efficiency is one which has a real and close bearing on the problem of eradicating corruption. The highest standards of efficiency require, and Efficiency.

can secure to a very great extent, an honest and incorruptible personnel. Efficiency in the larger and wider sense greatly conduces to a pure administration. Apart from the fact that the tax-payer has a right to expect that the administration will be efficient and honest, there is inherent need in any modern government, whatever its form, for an efficient and honest body of public servants for executing its will.

110. While efficiency must have broad and liberal standards, one must not make a fetish of it. Simply stated, it stands for the performance of Government business with the greatest possible despatch and with the utmost economy, and in the best manner and for the greatest good possible for those really concerned.

Reference to the previous Efficiency Audit System.

111. With these ideals in view a system of Efficiency Audit was introduced in the State by Sir M. Visvesvaraya. There appears to be a certain lack of knowledge, if not misconception, about the scope of "Efficiency Audit" as it functioned in the State for nearly a score of years—with certain material alterations in objectives and methods—and it will therefore be well to set down in brief an account of how it was started and worked.

The former cheme outlined.

112. In explaining the objects of the Scheme at the Assembly Dasara Session in 1913, Sir M. Visvesvaraya said:

"Measures are under contemplation to arrange for a system of 'efficiency audit' with a view to provide for more frequent and systematic inspections, to improve the Office Manuals and Standing Orders, and to ensure that the rules and orders in force are properly worked, or if not workable, promptly modified; that beneficent activities of every kind receive stimulus, that serious irregularities receive prompt attention; that, in short, waste of power and slackness of execution in the different departments of Government are controlled and minimised.

"Efficiency must be maintained if the Government is to get value for the money which it is spending on its establishments. In a country like ours where the system of Government departments is maintained on the European model and the staff employed to work them have not fully adopted European business habits, an 'Efficiency Audit' is as much a necessity as a 'Financial Audit'."

113. An Efficiency Audit Branch of the Secretariat was accordingly constituted early in 1914, working directly under orders of Government and placed in charge of an

Under-Secretary. The cardinal aims of its work were set out as below :—

(i) a greater degree of co-ordination and uniformity of work and procedure than existed at the time, in order to ensure that the individual activities and operations of the several departments were in consonance with the general aims and objects of Government, that the expenditure on them had a reasonable proportion to the result achieved or expected, and that the departments themselves were maintained according to the latest standards of progressive administration ;

(ii) the provision of assistance to Heads of Departments in enunciating principles, revising Rules and Standing Orders, and rendering the work of the departments more systematic and efficient.

114. The work of the branch was organised under the following heads :—

(1) Manuals and Standing Orders—their compilation, and the compliance with them to be ensured ;

(2) Periodical examination of departments—Members of Government to be assisted in periodical inspections and examination of individual offices with a view to ensure economy of expenditure and prevent slackness of execution ;

(3) Bureau of Information and Emergency Work—the staff to serve as a special reserve for investigation of irregularities in any department or of grievances in any part of the State;

(4) To assist accounts audit by means of an administrative audit.

115. In pursuance of the aims set out, the Branch devoted its attention to the work of preparation of Manuals, drawing up Rules for inspections and forms of Inspection notes and generally for the conduct of Government servants, laying down procedure for investigation and enquiry in cases of serious irregularities, and introducing and examining the working of fresh and modern office methods and procedure in several offices. Several cases of irregularities—especially those in which allegations of corruption were made—were investigated and dealt with. The Efficiency Audit branch thus did a considerable amount of useful work until 1921, when the activities of the Branch were considerably restricted owing to the need for retrenchment of expenditure ; and the scheme was practically abolished in 1922, leaving only a small staff for attending to the work of compilation of Manuals.

116. In 1924, the Government realising the necessity of improving the Office Manuals and Procedure, sanctioned the appointment of an officer designated as Inspector of

Office of the Inspector of Office Systems

Office Systems with the status of a Deputy Commissioner. His two-fold duties were:

(i) to inspect the several offices in the State with a view to examine the working of office methods and procedure in force in those offices and to suggest methods of improvement calculated to make official procedure simpler, prompter and more efficient; and

(ii) to conduct Revenue audit in respect of the Revenue-yielding departments with a view to direct and to prevent leakages of revenue therein.

117. The case for, and the object of, constituting the new office was thus put succinctly by the then Dewan-President (the Chairman of this Committee) in his reply to a cut motion on the subject at the Legislative Council Session of December 1924:—

"I for one consider that routine administration is most essential so far as the well-being of the people at large is concerned. The routine administration of a country not only helps to promote the well-being of the people in respect of their daily lives, but also helps in maintaining up to a proper level the sinews of war, as it were, without which no Government could be carried on. . . . . The officer who is proposed to be appointed should work directly under the Dewan and his colleagues, to be their searchlight, as it were; to pierce into the dark corners of the administration from which they may find money which would otherwise be lost; and gain knowledge of facts which will enable them to stiffen up the administration and improve its business methods and procedure to suit the present conditions and needs."

118. This two-fold task was carried on with appreciable success until 1931, when on the recommendation of the Retrenchment Committee, the Scheme was discontinued.

119. There are no two opinions about the need at present for introducing some form of Efficiency Audit. The Representative Assembly passed the following resolution at its last Session urging its revival:—

"This Assembly recommends to the Government of His Highness the Maharaja that immediate steps be taken to institute a system of 'Efficiency Audit' with a view to investigate the modes of work in the several departments of the State."

120. In replying to the debate on behalf of the Government, the Chief Secretary agreed that the objective of Government also was to improve efficiency in the working of the departments and added that Government would consider the suggestion made in the resolution. The Dewan-President also observed in his concluding speech that Government would give urgent consideration to the resolution passed by the Assembly.

121. The above gives a brief history of the subject of Efficiency Audit System and it will be the duty of the Committee, in an appropriate section of their Report, to consider whether it legitimately comes as one of the anti-corruption measures and may with advantage be revived with suitable changes.

(vi) Stores Purchase and Higher or Administrative Audit.

122. There is yet one other field of investigation which the Committee has explored to some extent and which remains to be mentioned; and a reference to it will bring to a close this somewhat detailed account of the Committee's investigations.

123. Some of the large spending departments in the State like the Public Works, Electrical, Railways, Military, etc., and some others such as Water Supply, Stationery and a few others, require and consume annually stores of various kinds worth several lakhs of rupees. In order to co-ordinate the purchase of such stores above certain limits under the supervision of a single agency, the Stores Purchase Committee was constituted in the year 1923, somewhat on the lines of the Indian Stores Department, with the object of securing economy and check against extravagance and waste in the purchase of stores, by means of expert knowledge, contact with firms and dealers, and by wide publicity and competition in the supplies market. Ever since then, the Stores Purchase Office has been operating in aid of the large spending and purchasing departments. The activities have progressively increased from the time when it was constituted. A statement of the purchases effected during the five years from 1939-40 to 1943-44 (inclusive) is given below:—

| Year | | Value of goods purchased outside India | Value of goods purchased in India | Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Rs. | Rs. | Rs. |
| 1939-40 | ... | 24,31,409 | 38,97,539 | 63,28,948 |
| 1940-41 | ... | 17,42,160 | 30,68,000 | 48,10,160 |
| 1941-42 | ... | 1,02,77,775 | 48,68,550 | 1,51,46,325 |
| 1942-43 | ... | 1,09,47,105 | 59,56,000 | 1,69,03,105 |
| 1943-44 | ... | 19,28,479 | 60,48,109 | 79,76,587 |

124. It will be seen that with a single variation, the purchases in India have been steadily increasing, and that in spite of the war having been on, there have been purchases outside India to a considerable extent—in two of the years to the extent of nearly twice the value of purchases in India. It may be expected that the tempo of purchases will in the very near future increase by leaps and bounds in view of the several Post-war Development Schemes on hand or under contemplation.

125. It becomes, therefore, extremely important to examine whether in view of the large purchases that are surely going to be made under Post-war Reconstruction Schemes, every safeguard has been provided in the existing system of purchases, inspection and payment, against waste, extravagance, fraud and corruption. It need hardly be said that this is a field which is so vast and fruitful that it can easily offer temptations even to those who might be expected under normal circumstances to be virtuous and honest. So far as the purchases are concerned, it may be presumed that the present machinery—of course with suitable reinforcement in view of the increasing volume of work—will continue. In the field of inspection, there is perhaps not so much need for care and vigilance in regard to purchases in India as in respect of those outside. In both cases, however, any system calculated to be effective should be such as will carefully appraise the material with reference to specifications, quality, durability, and all other like considerations, and reject peremptorily any defective materials or goods.

126. It is in regard to the audit and payment of bills pertaining to the purchase of stores that the greatest care and vigilance are perhaps necessary. At present no doubt the Audit machinery of the State both under the Comptroller and under the Auditors of the concerned departments exercises check and scrutiny over these payments in accordance with the recognised rules and principles of audit. In this matter, however, it is not merely a routine 'financial' audit that will suffice to serve the interest of the State. Audit in respect of 'propriety' has to receive its greatest emphasis in such transactions in order to guard against possible fraud, misappropriation and corruption.

127. The importance and purpose of 'Higher' or 'Administrative' audit arise in this context. The Auditor, besides exercising the usual checks will have to see that the general principles of legitimate finance are borne in mind and it is his duty in audit not only to offer any necessary criticism of their acts, but also to assist them in protecting the interest of the tax-payers, in developing revenue, and in effecting economies in expenditure wherever possible. All this is secured not by a mere application of rules and regulations, but by intelligent and detailed scrutiny directed to the avoidance of wasteful and extravagant expenditure. As was stated in the First Despatch on the Reforms :—

"In place of the formal examination of authorities and of rules, the work should be conducted with greater regard to the broad principles of legitimate finance. The audit will not only see whether there is quoted authority for expenditure, but will also investigate the necessity for it. It will ask whether individual items were in furtherance of the scheme for which the budget provided; whether the same results could have been obtained otherwise with greater economy; whether the rate and scale of expenditure were justified in the circumstances; in fact, they will ask every question that might be expected from an intelligent tax-payer bent on getting the best value for his money. The Audit Officers will also devote more of their time to looking into the manner in which various Executive Officers are undertaking their more important financial responsibilities."

128. Though this was said quite a long time ago, the spirit behind audit in general remains very much the same.

129. In the United Kingdom too, though all that is prescribed by Statute is what is called 'Appropriation Audit', "the Auditor-General is wont to push his inquiries further than the letter of the Statute warrants, and to inquire also into any payment which on the face of the documents submitted to him appears to be imprudent and wasteful." This is called Administrative Audit; its value is very great, though the scope is limited on account of the fact that only such loss and wastage as can be discovered in, or are patent on the face of the documents, can be pointed out, and as Audit cannot go behind or beyond the documents presented to it for inspection.

130. It will thus be essential to see what special precautions are necessary over and above the procedure laid down in the Manual of Stores Purchase in the field of purchase, inspection and audit of Stores and payments therefor, in view of the foregoing considerations and with a view to the checking of malpractices.

CHAPTER IV.

Main Issues and General Conclusions.

131. We have now reached a stage suitable for framing the main issues and recording findings thereon.

132. As was stated earlier, the task of the Committee is to examine the existing rules and measures for putting down corruption, to find out to what extent they have been enforced and have been effective, and to suggest such changes or additions as may be considered necessary for meeting the needs of the present situation as well as those of the future. The first two items of this three-fold task have just been completed. We have seen how corruption is an evil which has been in existence practically all along in almost all administrations to a greater or smaller degree, and how it appears to have received an accession of strength in recent years and thus loomed large in the public eye for some time past. Representative public opinion, as well as of a section of officials which has opportunities of coming into contact with the public at present, has been elicited on the various aspects of the question. We have also seen how there have been a variety of measures adopted in the State, and how they compare with those in force elsewhere in India. The statistics of cases of corruption dealt with by the several Heads of Departments during the last three years have been reviewed, and it has been seen how existing rules and measures have not been adequate nor strictly enforced in their entirety. The bearing which controls and control orders have on the problem, the nature of the opportunities and temptations provided by them and by the existence of certain executive powers of the subordinate officials of various departments for the spread of the evil, the possibilities of further opportunities arising in connection with the impending large purchases of plant, machinery, etc., under Post-war Reconstruction Schemes, unless adequate scrutiny is exercised, the role of efficiency and Efficiency Audit in putting down corruption, and the need for certain minimum standards of salary and allowances and for certain elementary amenities to subordinate officials in order that they may be free from temptations as far as possible, have all been examined at length.

133. Here then are the various factors which may be considered to have a close connection with the question. Certain primary conclusions have already emerged from an elucidation of these, and there are certain secondary and more important conclusions which arise and may be stated here.

134. It was said earlier that the Committee's jurisdiction did not extend to finding out what the extent of prevalence of corruption at present is, and in what departments or classes it exists, but that the existence of corruption is a fact which is admitted. The first main question is how far the existing measures have been able to cope with the evil and whatever may be the answer, what further remedial measures are necessary under the present circumstances.

135. The finding on the first issue has already been recorded. As to the second, further measures are undoubtedly necessary at least in respect of the temporary departments; and in the case of the permanent departments also, further measures are needed to the extent that the position in those departments has, apart from general routine, been affected by the temporary departments and by the situation which necessitated the creation of such departments. It is correct to say as the general opinion of all those who answered our Questionnaire on this point that war conditions are mainly, if not entirely, responsible, involving so many control operations, permits and licences, and the general enforcement of the food policy of the State.

136. To justify the conclusion that further measures to deal with corruption are now necessary, it is generally urged that the times have changed but the administrative machinery and organisation have not pari passu altered to suit changed conditions; and besides, owing to increase in the volume of work and other causes, the rules and provisions have not been widely and strictly enforced. The Committee agree with these views.

137. Now we come to the main issue, viz., what are the further steps or measures that, in the opinion of the Committee, may be adopted. In dealing, however, with the various departments, identical measures cannot obviously be made applicable to all. Different departments would require different treatment with special reference to existing rules and regulations, since the malady in each may have its distinctive and special features. The recommendations may generally be classified as Statutory and Administrative. The temporary departments when abolished will need no continued policy to deal with such kind of corruption as has sprung up in the course of their existence. The remedies should in general be comprehensive, keeping in view the progressive nature of the administration, its enlarged scope in all directions, and the necessity to equip Government with suitable powers to defeat the enemies of good Government, of which corruption is the most powerful.

CHAPTER V.

Recommendations

138. Statutory Measures.—Under statutory measures we suggest the following:—

(i) offences under Sections 161, 164 and 165, Indian Penal Code, should be made cognizable. As a matter of precaution the police officer taking cognizance of there offences should inform confidentially the Head of the Department in which the suspected official is working, if he is an officer of a non-gazetted rank, and the Government in other cases, of the fact of having started the investigation within 24 hours of doing so; and in addition, submit his report to the Magistrate having local jurisdiction, under Section 158 (1) of the Criminal Procedure Code, through the Anti-corruption Deputy of the Special Officer referred to in para 139 infra, who will be authorised by Government in this behalf by a special order.

(ii) the Law should be so amended as to provide that when money or other gratification has passed between a public servant and a member of the public with whom he has any official relation, the onus of proof that the gift or offer was innocent is on the accused under Sections 161, 164 and 165, Indian Penal Code, and not on the prosecution;

(iii) the penal provisions of Sections 161, 164 and 165 should be so amended as to impose additional fines at least equivalent to the amount obtained by means of the offences;

(iv) the fact that any person charged under Sections 161, 164 and 165, Indian Penal Code, is in possession, for which he cannot satisfactorily account, of property or pecuniary resources disproportionate to his known sources of income, may be proved and taken into consideration as a relevant fact in deciding whether he is or is not guilty of the offences charged; and

(v) the above special provisions should be made applicable to the trial of all cases under Sections 161, 164 and 165, Indian Penal Code, which may have occurred since 1st January 1939 and investigated or brought to light after that date.

As the ordinary process of legislation is likely to take a long time and it is expedient that the proposed changes should be enforced with the least possible delay, we recommend that the above amendments of the Law be brought into effect speedily by means of an Emergency Act under Section 31 of the Government of Mysore Act.

A. Main recommendation:—Appointment of a Special Officer.

(i) His position.

139. Administrative Measures.—The most important recommendation in this category that we would make is, the creation of an office of a Special Officer for Efficiency Audit and Anti-corruption measures, for a period of five years in the first instance. His status will be above that of a Head of a Department and below that of a Minister, and his pay may be Rs. 1,500 to Rs. 1,800 per mensem with suitable car allowance or Government transport. He will be answerable in his work directly to the Dewan and work directly under his orders. The appointments in this department should not be made with reference to mere seniority but mainly with reference to special merit and integrity and capacity for the kind of work that is to be undertaken.

(ii) His office.

140. As the name indicates, the Special Officer will have two branches of work: one, an Efficiency Audit Branch and the other an Anti-corruption Branch. These two will each be under the immediate charge of an officer with pay and status not below those of a Deputy Commissioner. The officer at the head of the Efficiency Audit Branch should have intimate knowledge and experience of office systems and be fully conversant with Office Manuals, Standing Orders, etc., and should also have opportunities to study administrative systems and conditions elsewhere. The other Deputy should have special detective abilities and necessary equipment for purposes of detection and investigation of cases of corruption, and may be invested with all the powers of a Deputy Commissioner under the Mysore Police Act. Both officers will have adequate staff working under them for the kind of work in view.

(iii) His general powers.

141. The Special Officer at the head of these two Branches will exercise the powers of a full-fledged Head of a Department and an Inspector-General of Police respectively with reference to them, and will guide and co-ordinate their work. He will be entitled to the full co-operation of all the other Heads of Departments in his work.

(iv) His duties re Efficiency Audit.

142. The duties of the Special Officer on the Efficiency Audit side will be as follows:—

(i) to study the system and methods of work in the several departments in the State with reference to the departmental Manuals, Standing Orders, etc., and to bring the latter up-to-date so as to be in accordance with the latest standards of administration;

(ii) to conduct frequent and surprise inspections of the various departmental officers including those of Heads of Departments, for ensuring compliance with Rules and Standing Orders, and securing prompt disposal of papers, and to bring to notice lapses for suitable action;

(iii) to review and revise, if necessary, the rules regarding regular periodical and surprise inspections so as to make them more stringent and conform to present-day complicated routine of Government;

(iv) to examine the nature and extent of the executive powers exercised at present by subordinate officials and officers of the several departments such as Excise, Forest, Public Works, Railways, Income-tax, Revenue, Food and Civil Supplies, etc., and to suggest ways and means of preventing the misuse of such powers, keeping in view the need for adequate decentralization of powers; and

(v) to conduct test audits of Revenue on the lines of the Revenue Audit System formerly in vogue, with a view to detect and to remedy leakages of revenue in all revenue-yielding departments.

(v) His work on the Anti-corruption side.

143. The duties of the Anti-corruption Branch will be as follows:—

(i) to detect and investigate specific cases of corruption in all departments of the State and take further action;

(ii) to keep close watch generally over Government servants, including those lent to Joint-stock companies or persons appointed to such companies, and, in particular, over those with an unsavoury reputation.

(a) Jurisdictions re: investigation of cases.

For the investigation of cases, the jurisdiction of this Special Agency and of the Heads of the Departments will be concurrent. The latter will, as heretofore, deal with cases of corruption coming to their notice according to rules; the Anti-corruption department, while having the inherent power to take up any case of any department at any stage, including cases of Government servants lent to Joint-stock companies or persons appointed by Government to such companies in the State, will in practice investigate only cases which the Special Officer considers should be investigated by his staff exclusively.

(b) Powers in the course of investigation and generally.

144. In carrying out the above duties the Anti-corruption office is recommended to have the following powers :—

(i) power to call for returns from officers of assets such as bank accounts, shares, investments, insurance policies, etc., especially of years 1939 to 1946, held by them or their dependants or near relatives and, where there is suspicion of chronic indebtedness, to call for statements of debts and liabilities ; and

(ii) to search for and seize property suspected to have been acquired by corrupt means.

145. In order to keep this office informed of all cases of corruption being dealt with at anytime and to enable it to watch their disposal, the Heads of Departments or other officers concerned should send intimation to that office as soon as a case is taken up for investigation and also send quarterly returns of cases dealt with to enable the said office to submit to Government a review regarding their disposal.

and (c) procedure after investigation.

146. The procedure to be adopted by the Anti-corruption office after the stage of investigation is over will be as below :—

(a) In cases in which the Head of the Department concerned is competent to pass final orders, the records will be forwarded to him for disposal except where, for special reasons to be recorded in writing and with the approval of the Dewan, the Special Officer conducts the enquiry himself, in which case the records will be submitted to Government for orders with his findings. In cases referred to him, the Head of the Department concerned will, after disposing of the case within a prescribed time-limit, send a copy of the order passed to the Special Officer, who, if he considers the decision wrong or perverse or inadequate, will submit the case to Government for orders with his remarks ; or

(b) in cases where the Head of the Department concerned is not competent to pass final orders, the enquiry will be conducted, according to rules, by the Special Officer himself and the records submitted to Government direct for orders with his findings and recommendations.

B. Other Administrative measures :

147. The other measures of an administrative character which we would recommend are these :

(i) Compulsory half-yearly property returns.

Firstly, Government should compel Public Servants (other than menials) to furnish all relevant information with regard to their property such as bank accounts, shares and other investments, insurance policies, immovable property held or acquired by them or transferred by them to their dependants or others, on pain of dismissal if suppressed or when incorrect particulars are furnished. These returns should be half-yearly in prescribed forms. It would not be too drastic a measure to make false returns liable for prosecution like Income-tax returns or to make them relate to the years subsequent to 1st January 1939.

(ii) Recasting Enquiry Rules.

Secondly, the rules regarding departmental enquiries in regard to cases of bribery and corruption should be recast so as to make enquiries speedy. The gradation of officers to make enquiries should be clearly specified.

(iii) Investigation into adequacy of pay and allowances.

Thirdly, the pay and emoluments of the subordinate ranks in the public services require re-examination with a view to giving them at least a living wage. We suggest the desirability of making a general investigation into the adequacy or otherwise of scales of pay and allowances of subordinate staff and would specially point out the need for—

(a) providing suitable Government quarters for, or paying suitable house-rent allowances to, Government servants up to a certain grade of pay ; and

(b) increasing the rates of allowance for tours and transfers or at least paying the actual expenses incurred, so that those concerned may not be out of pocket as a result of undertaking necessary tours and transfers in public interest.

(iv) Miscellaneous measures.

Fourthly, we make the following subsidiary suggestions as helpful :—

(i) The rules of transfer should be so framed and operated that while a Government servant is prevented from acquiring local interests he is at the same-time not subjected to undue hardship by transfers to distant places except for special reasons, especially in the case of lower subordinates ;

(ii) Government officers should be strictly forbidden to obtain commodities through their subordinates in the course of their tours and the practice of obtaining free supplies should be severely dealt with ;

(iii) confidential reports by superior officers about their subordinates should contain specific information as to their character and conduct even though no definite evidence of corrupt practice is available and also about the property owned or acquired by them and the extent of indebtedness, if any. Suitable disciplinary action should be taken in cases of adverse reports for three consecutive years;

(iv) Deputy Commissioners and other executive officers should mention in their diaries and journals the number and nature of surprise inspections conducted by them and the results. Heads of Departments also should report to Government once in a quarter the nature and the results of surprise inspections held by them;

(v) all the existing Rules and Standing Orders regarding the conduct of Government Servants and other anti-corruption measures should be embodied in a booklet to be prescribed as a compulsory subject for all departmental examinations;

(vi) public servants should be enjoined to report at once to the immediate superior authority any case in which they have been offered illegal gratification;

(vii) deterrent and exemplary punishments should be awarded in cases proved in court or in departmental enquiries. In cases of conviction, the public servant concerned should be dismissed and also denied the service benefits;

(viii) the results of enquiries in bribery cases ending in punishments should invariably be published in the Gazette;

(ix) rewards may be given for information as to the offer of bribes and as to the transaction effected and such a policy widely notified;

(x) a direction to all Heads of Departments should be given that if five respectable persons were to join in making a written complaint in regard to a case in which they have no personal interest either directly or indirectly, alleging corrupt conduct on the part of any official of any department, the departmental superior of the official complained against should make a full investigation into the case, and if corrupt conduct is suspected, take disciplinary action against the Government Servant concerned;

(xi) where there is any suspicion that a bribe has been given under pressure, the bribe-giver should be exempted from prosecution, or in other cases in which Government or the Special Officer or the Head of the Department thinks fit;

(xii) a Vigilance Committee of an advisory character may be set up in each District with the Deputy Commissioner as Chairman, and the District Superintendent of Police, the District Board President and two non-officials elected by the District Board as members, to co-operate with the Special Officer's department, and in particular to conduct propaganda against the giving of bribes by the public and against corruption in general;

(xiii) a Central Vigilance Committee of an advisory character for the State may also be constituted with the Special Officer as Chairman and two senior Heads of Departments, two elected L. C. Members and four elected R. A. Members as members;

(xiv) a system of audit independent of the Executive Government should be instituted to scrutinise Post-War expenditure with a view to avoid leakages; and

(xv) necessary legislation may be undertaken to compel Banks, Joint-stock Companies, Insurance Companies, etc., to disclose information regarding deposits and other transactions of Government servants with them.

CONCLUSION.

148. Acknowledgments.—It now remains for the Committee to place on record their acknowledgments to all the official and non-official gentlemen and the public bodies who have sent in their answers to the Questionnaire issued to them and for the trouble they have taken in giving a frank and lucid expression of their views in respect of all the delicate matters involved.

149. It is also our duty in this connection to place on record our high appreciation of the manner in which the Secretary of the Committee, Mr. D. K. Srinivasachar, B.Sc. (Hons.), has discharged his duties, and the industry and ability which he has brought to bear on his work, which, needless to say, has greatly helped the Committee during the different stages of its investigations.

150. We may also add that the Secretariat staff attached has shown praiseworthy devotion to duty and has often worked overtime to get through the work entrusted to it.

151. Lastly, our thanks are due to the Principal, Sri Krishnarajendra Silver Jubilee Technological Institute, for having placed at the disposal of the Committee, necessary accommodation in the Technological Institute building for the Committee's office during the period of its activities.

SUPPLEMENTAL NOTE.

(By Mr. Bhoopalam R. Chandrasekharayya.)

The question of Responsible Government has cropped up even in the consideration of the measures necessary to eradicate corruption. Some of the answers to the Questionnaire have a reference to "Responsible Government". Several non-official gentlemen have stated that the absence of Responsible Government is one of the causes of prevalence of corruption among the Government servants. On the other hand, some of the officers have complained of intervention by non-official members of the Legislative bodies in official enquiries into cases of corruption with a view to securing exoneration of delinquent officials. Personally, I think we must have the entire public before our eye when we take up the question of ensuring the purity of Administration; otherwise our conclusions will be lacking the proper reasons, and the remedial measures we suggest will go only half-way. Hence we must identify ourselves with the aspirations of the people as a whole. "Purity of the Administration"—is it for its own sake or for the good of the people? Evidently, for the latter; and certainly it is not for its own sake since what is called 'Administration' is not engaged in any "Tapas" for its own "Moksha" or freedom. It exists for the good of the people. Why then do people resort to bribing officials? Coercion cannot always be the reason. The whole outlook of the people must change. They must feel that the Administration exists for their good and if they corrupt it, it will be for their own undoing. But unfortunately the present system of Government is not conducive to the bringing up of such an outlook in them. People regard the Government servants as some kind of administrative Gods who have got to be propitiated with offerings, unless like real Gods they were to refuse such offerings. It is only in a system of Responsible Government under the ægis of His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore that the people can feel that the Government is of the people, for the people and by the people, and not by a bureaucracy consisting of administrative Gods. Hence it is under conditions of Responsible system of Administration that the mentality of the people is bound to change for the better. Thus the demand for Responsible Government under the ægis of the Ruler cannot be brushed aside as academic in bearing in considering remedial measures necessary to eradicate bribery and corruption.

2. Under the existing conditions what I would suggest as the best manner of mobilizing public opinion against corruption is by providing for the bringing in of special non-official motions under the Rules and Standing orders of the Assembly in connection with the prevalence of corruption or inefficiency in particular departments of Government or Administration as a whole as the case may be. Such motions with the full debate thereon as also the result of voting must be sent for the gracious perusal of the Ruler for such action as the Ruler may in his discretion decide upon. If a provision like this exists it will have a whipping effect on the Ministers concerned, to see that the Departments (whose port-folios are held by them) are maintained pure and efficient. In the absence of such provisions the natural human feeling in a Minister would be: "I am not personally corrupt. If there are corrupt officials let the public come forth with evidence and the law will be set in motion against them, i.e., the corrupt officials, if the evidence is strong, and against the informants if the evidence is weak." In such a state of affairs a stalemate would be the result and corruption continues unchecked.

3. I am not crying down the entire Mysore Officialdom. During the trying period of the war under conditions which may be described as those in which temptations were too much even for the best of men, many officers and officials of the superior and inferior ranks have stood out of the inglorious path and maintained the Mysore tradition for honesty and efficiency. All honour to them. But others took a different view. In the famous novel "Last Days of Pompeii", the very priests of the temple begin to loot the temple treasure when the deadly volcanic eruption begins the destruction of the City, and one of the priests loudly cries out "No one will ever demand an account of the doings of this day." Similarly when the recent world conflagration was on, some of those in power and authority thought that they would never be called into account in their doings and, both by coercion and by other means, amassed wealth which in other circumstances they would never have dreamed of accumulating.

4. Now that peace has returned, very stringent measures are necessary to deal with the situation—past and present. And those that looted the public temple—the Exchequer—of the money due to it, whether by helping evasion of taxation or helping black-marketeers in questionable earnings, must be brought to book. They have been a disgrace to the Mysore Service and irrespective of the fact that they are high-placed or low-placed in official ranks, must be dealt with severely. Their acts must be unearthed and brought to light and repetitions of such acts must be prevented. Along with the measure suggested by the whole Committee, I wish to add the one suggestion contained in Para 2 regarding the provision for moving of special no-confidence motion in the Assembly. Such a provision in no way infringes upon the Sovereign rights of His Highness the Maharaja, viz., that of ultimate veto or ratification, and leaves final decision to his discretion—the greatest safety-factor for Mysore.

SUPPLEMENTAL NOTE.

(By Mr. A. J. Khaleel)

Mr. Bhoopalam R. Chandrasekhariah has suggested in his supplemental note that the grant of responsible government will be the panacea for eradication of bribery prevalent amongst the various grades of public servants. The object for which this Committee was constituted, and the terms of reference do not in the least permit the question of self-government or responsible government being considered by the committee. Hence no such discussion was made at any stage of the committee. If such discussions were permitted the Committee as a whole would have threshed out the question in all its aspects and submitted its recommendations on this point as well. In these circumstances the question of bringing in a constitutional reform by the grant of responsible government is both irrelevant and ultra vires for this committee. But since my learned colleague has put forward his suggestions in the supplemental note, I would briefly record my opinion also on this matter. In the opinion of Mr. Bhoopalam R. Chandrasekhariah, purity of administration can only be obtained by changing the entire outlook of the people. This is the only suggestion made in the entire note. I must agree with him entirely in that object. How can this change be brought about? Mr. B. R. Chandrasekhariah's suggestion is that the grant of responsible government would bring about this change. But it is impossible to gather from his note what he means by Responsible Government. As is generally understood, if responsible government means that the Cabinet of Ministers should be responsible to and be removeable by the vote of the legislature, then I must emphatically say that the grant of responsible government at the present state of educational and political consciousness of the people would be the greatest tragedy for this country. Mr. Chandrasekhariah should have known that the electorate at large is not sufficiently educated to understand the various complex problems of society and government and much less understands the effects of any legislation. At present the voters are merely guided by the slogans used by the self-seeking persons and, without knowing what they are doing, they vote for the party most powerful in the particular area. Until the electorate in this country knows its own mind and can take interest in the affairs of administration it would be sheer folly to grant responsible government. On the other hand, if my learned colleague's recommendation is approved, the government will become most shaky and non-official interference in smooth working of departments will tend to further spoil the efficiency of administration. Moreover, where is the guarantee that all the elected members of the legislative bodies would be the symbols of honesty, truth and justice? Honesty or dishonesty is equally prevalent amongst the non-officials as well as the officials. The general will of the people is not ascertainable at present through the elected representatives who also resort to uncommendable measures to get elected. If such people are given the power to remove a Cabinet then the whole administration will come down. As it is, His Highness the Maharaja, whose sole concern is the welfare and uplift of his subjects, symbolises the general will of the people and as such the Cabinet should be responsible to him and him alone. He has been responsive to the representations of his subjects both through the legislative bodies and also through other means including his personal contact with the raiyats as well as the leaders of public opinion. I must, therefore, strongly disagree with my learned colleague's suggestion that the grant of responsible government would eradicate bribery and remove this corruption.

APPENDIX II-A.

(Vide Para 10.)

Extract of the speech delivered by the then Dewan-President (Chairman of this Committee) at the Birthday Session of the Representative Assembly in 1922 on the subject of the Prevention of Bribery in certain departments.

"It is the duty of every Government to maintain purity of the service as well as to prevent corruption, and all I can tell this Assembly is that we shall try our best to do our duty in both these respects.

"The question of amending the Penal Code as a measure to prevent corruption is not feasible at all. There are many practical difficulties in regard to the prevention of corruption. The chief difficulty according to my experience is that we cannot always get proper evidence against a subordinate official whose reputation is bad, which is of a sufficiently conclusive character for punishment, as people do not come forward. If there is corruption in a village, or in a taluk, or in a district, Government expect that there should be sufficient public opinion, feeling, and courage to expose that corruption. I give you my word that if people come forward and convince the Government of corruption in the case of any official, he shall go out of office.

"On the other hand, there are grave dangers. An officer may be very strict, just and impartial. He may fearlessly do his duty to the people and also to Government. He may create enemies even by the perfect discharge of his duties. Anonymous petitions may be sent and an unholy intrigue may be set up against him. If the Government does not protect such officers, the whole service will become demoralised.

"These are the two important considerations. Where there is corruption, it must be suppressed. Where there is an unholy agitation against a public servant, he must be protected. We shall do both.

"I might also mention my experience in this connection. While in British service, I had to deal with cases of this kind. If certain cases come to the notice of Government, they may notify pardon to those people who will come forward to give concrete evidence to prove corruption. People who are parties to the corruption are as much guilty in the eyes of the Law, as the person who takes the bribe. There is naturally hesitation and fear, and they will write anonymous petitions. I have myself conducted certain cases and made enquiries in British India against corrupt officials, by giving pardon with the permission of Government; and there was no prosecution against such witnesses. But that is only a half measure. I can only say that the prevention of corruption can be effectively done only with the co-operation of the people."

APPENDIX II-B.

Extract of the speech delivered by the then Dewan-President (Chairman of this Committee) on 13th December 1924 at the meeting of the Legislative Council in reply to a resolution re the constitution of a Committee to enquire into cases of corruption in the services.

"That is the declaration of policy which I made to the Representative Assembly. The resolution, I daresay, is brought before this Council with very good intentions on the part of the mover. But it is, to my mind, opposed to all principles of sound administration. In the first place, I must at once disabuse the mind of the members of this House as well as of those who read the proceedings of this House outside, of any general impression that the Mysore State Public Service is contaminated largely with the disease of corruption. During my 30 years of experience as public servant, I have been to many places, served in many appointments, come in contact with various administrations and various classes of officers, and I cannot say that any drastic measure is needed in the Mysore State to root out corruption. In fact, my experience in recent years of Mysore Administration is that it is very much better than the Administration in many British Provinces. Of course, corruption there must be. Is there no corruption in European countries? Is there no corruption even in the highest quarters of the most civilized Administrations of the West and why make this question for discussion in this House in the form of this motion with a view to create an absolutely false impression outside that the Mysore Administration is not as pure as you wish it to be? As I stated while interrupting the Member who moved the resolution, his reference to the report of the Committee appointed in the Punjab does not support the motion at all either in principle or on any other ground. The idea of associating non-official members, whether they are members of this Council or of the Assembly, is totally impracticable and from an administrative point of view thoroughly unsound. Public servants are, no doubt, the servants of the public in a general sense, but they must be wholly and undividedly responsible to their employer, i.e., Government, so far as their official discipline is concerned. Well, now, if it is stated that this organization should enquire into all cases of corruption in the various departments of Government, I would like to ask when does a case become a case. Is it merely a complaint in the form of an anonymous petition received by Government or cases in respect of which Government deem fit after inquiry to frame charges and order investigation? Cases, I take the member to mean, must be brought to the notice of Government by individuals who are prepared to come forward and sign their names to any paper on which a definite complaint is made. What is the meaning of the words 'all cases'? The member has not enlightened the House on this point. Instances of corruption must be specific, must be definite and must relate to some particular transaction in which an officer or official has been corrupt. General cases of corruption cannot be inquired into naturally and the inquiry into all cases of corruption in the various departments of Government is, I think, a very very tall order, thoroughly impracticable, thoroughly unsound and such an arrangement cannot possibly be agreed to by any same Administration. I have already mentioned in this House the principle. It is not necessary for me to emphasize it again, viz., the misconduct of public servants is a matter which should be left entirely to Government to deal with. It is the Government that should enquire into his conduct and punish him if he deserves any punishment. Non-official participation in matters of discipline in regard to public service of any administration would be a thoroughly unsound policy. The whole Administration would become demoralized and the efficiency of the Administration will also suffer. This resolution practically implies that the Government in the past have shown incompetence or inability to deal with cases of corruption when they came to their notice. Well, I challenge the public opinion of the Mysore State or any individual member of both the Houses to bring to the notice of Government a single case of corruption against any public servant which they are aware of and which the Government have not or in respect of which they declined to make any enquiry or investigation. It is not for me to place on the table of this House a list of officers and officials of various grades against whom disciplinary measure for dishonesty or corruption has been taken during the past several years. I don't think it would be right on the part of any Administration to wash their dirty linen, whether they be few or whether they be numerous, in public. But I have stated before this House what my impression is about the extent of corruption in the Mysore State. The orders of Government in regard to corruption are many. The majority of them are confidential. They are based on the ordinary standing instructions relating to conduct of public servants, relating to inquiries to be made against them when there is any allegation of corruption and those orders relating to procedure have been formulated on two considerations, viz., (1) that the officer must be given the fullest opportunity of explaining himself knowing the facts that are alleged against him, giving him the fullest chance for vindicating his character, and (2) that the inquiry must be held promptly and effectively by the superior officer entrusted with that inquiry and he (the latter) is directed to collect all the evidence that is forthcoming in a legitimate manner and to see that the complaint is properly investigated, giving even assurances of pardon to bribe-givers, if necessary.

"In regard to this matter, very soon after I assumed charge, I issued a very important personal Circular Letter to all the Deputy Commissioners of the Districts drawing their attention to the necessity of prompt inquiry, impartial and strict investigation into all cases of corruption that may come to their notice in various ways against the subordinates of the district. That letter has had very good effect and this House may take it from me that even within the last between two or three years, cases of misconduct on the part of subordinate officials of the Mysore State, so far as complaints and allegations of corruption are concerned, have gone down to a very considerable extent, due partly to vigilance and partly to severe disciplinary measures having been taken. I do not see any justification for a resolution like this to go forward or to be accepted by this House, both on the ground of principle as well as questions of fact. There is no necessity whatever to take any such measure or establish any such organization as suggested in the resolution. I would ask the general public and the representatives of the people who sit here to leave the matter to the judgment and good sense and discretion of Government who are doing everything in their power to stamp out corruption wherever it exists in all the departments of the State.

APPENDIX III.

(Vide Para 23).

Questionnaire issued by the Committee.

1. Describe the several kinds of bribery that to your knowledge are prevalent or on the increase in the shape of Mamool, percentages on Bills, payments of money or in kind such as supplies, etc., and mention the departments of Administration or class or grades of Government Servants amongst whom the practice prevails.

2. Do you think that bribery and corruption have increased in the State to such an extent that further steps are necessary in addition to the Rules and Orders already in force?

3. Do you think that the present position is due for the most part to war conditions and the introduction of control operations of various kinds? If so, state the modus operandi in the different forms of bribery practised.

4. Are touts or agents employed for the purpose of giving and taking bribes? If so, mention the nature of the transactions to which they relate.

5. What are the reasons other than those covered by question 3 to suppose that there is increase in the practice of bribery and corruption which cannot be eradicated by Rules and Orders already in force?

6. Turning to the remedial measures in addition to those already provided for, what do you think should be the nature of those measures, whether they fall under administrative or statutory provisions or both? Should the temporary departments be specifically dealt with?

7. Do you think the strict enforcement of the existing rules regarding surprise inspections, close vigilance and frequent contact with and accessibility to the public on the part of superior officers will help to put down the evil? If not, can you suggest additional rules or measures?

8. In particular, do you think it is necessary to have a special machinery or agency for the detection of corrupt practices?

9. If the answer to the above question is in the affirmative, mention the general outline of your scheme and also if you consider a Special Tribunal for the trial of offenders necessary.

10. In the alternative, do you think that an Efficiency Audit staff under each Head of Department and each Deputy Commissioner would be desirable or would you prefer a centralized staff directly under the Head of the Administration with a suitable establishment and invested with definite functions and powers?

11. If the answer to the latter part of the above question is in the affirmative, would you recommend any special powers such as those enumerated below:—

(i) power to call for particulars of debts and liabilities;

(ii) power to call for statement of property and other assets owned by the officers concerned and also by their wives, children and near relatives;

(iii) power to call for information relating to the above from Government offices, Banks, Societies, Insurance other Companies, private money-lenders, etc.; and

(iv) power of search and seizure in respect of property suspected to have been acquired by unlawful means.

12. Apart from the administrative measures that are in force or that may be introduced newly, do you think that any special statutory provisions or amendments to the existing law such as the Indian Penal Code, the Criminal Procedure Code, etc., are necessary? If so, mention the measures or amendments that you recommend.

13. What are the most effective methods of mobilising public opinion against the evil of corruption? Do you recommend the formation of District Anti-corruption or Vigilance Committees composed of non-officials as a possible solution?

14. Is it necessary in your opinion to give any special protection to informants including those who may be bribe-givers and if so, what form should it take?

15. Have you any other constructive suggestions to offer?

16. Are you prepared to tender evidence before the Committee to elucidate points arising from your answers to the above questions, if you were invited to do so at Bangalore or at your District Headquarters?

Extracts from Government Servants Conduct Rules.

Gifts.—Save as otherwise provided in this rule, a Government servant shall not, without the previous sanction of Government, directly or indirectly, accept either on his own behalf or on behalf of any other person or permit any member of his family to accept any gift, gratuity or reward or any offer of gift, gratuity or reward from any person with whom he may have to deal in his official capacity. Rule 2.

A Government servant may accept a complimentary present of flowers or fruits or similar articles of trifling value. But the practice of giving presents of even trifling value should be discouraged. Rule 3.

A Government servant shall not, save with the previous sanction of Government, receive any silver key, trowel, etc., however small in value they may be, presented on certain ceremonial occasions, such as the laying of a foundation stone or the opening of a public building. In all such cases, the silver key, trowel, etc., should be returned to the institution to which they belong, as their retention by the officers concerned is against the spirit of the rule. The instructions of Government should be taken in any case in which the mode of disposing of an article is not clear. Rule 4.

Nothing in this rule shall be deemed to apply to the Dewan, a Minister of the Council or a Judge of the High Court.

When a gift of substantial value cannot be refused without giving offence, it must be delivered up to Government and to this rule no exception whatsoever is permissible save with the express sanction of Government, which will only be given under very special circumstances. Rule 5.

A Government servant may not accept any present on the occasion of a marriage or any similar occurrence taking place in his house, except from his own relatives. Rule 6.

Subject to the departmental rules governing the question, a Medical Officer may accept any gift, gratuity or reward offered in good faith by any person or body of persons in recognition of his professional services. Rule 7.

Public demonstrations in honour of Government servants.—A Government servant shall not, except with the previous sanction of Government, (a) receive any complimentary or valedictory address, accept any testimonial, or attend any public meeting or entertainment held in his honour; or (b) take part in the presentation of a complimentary or valedictory address or of a testimonial to any Government servant or to any person who has recently quitted the service of Government or attend a public meeting or entertainment held in honour of such other Government servant or person. Rule 8.

N.B.—This rule does not apply to the Dewan.

A Government servant may, at the request of any public body, sit for a portrait, bust or statue not intended for presentation to him. Rule 9.

* * * *

A Government servant may, attend a farewell entertainment of a substantially private and informal character held as a mark of regard Rule 11.

to himself or to some other Government servant or to a person who has recently quitted the service of Government, on the occasion of the retirement from the service, or the departure from a district or station, of himself or such other Government servant or person. Before accepting or taking part in such an entertainment, a Government servant should satisfy himself that it is of a strictly private nature.

3013-67—G. M. 54-40-1, dated 15th October 1940.

Heads of Departments and Deputy Commissioners of Districts should see that the rules 8 to 11 supra are strictly observed and that the practice of getting up indiscriminate semi-social entertainments for officers at tea parties, etc., is discouraged as far as possible.

* * * *

Rule 13.

Lending and borrowing.—A Gazetted Officer or any other Government servant receiving a salary of Rs. 100 and above may not lend money to any person possessing land within the local limits of his authority, nor may he, except in the ordinary course of business with a Joint-Stock Bank or a firm of standing, borrow money from, or otherwise place himself under a pecuniary obligation to, any person subject to his official authority, or residing, possessing land, or carrying on business within the local limits of such authority.

Rule 14.

When a Government servant is appointed or transferred to a post of such a nature that a person from whom he has borrowed money or to whom he has otherwise placed himself under a pecuniary obligation will be subject to his official authority, or will reside, possess immovable property to carry on business within the local limits of such authority, he shall forthwith report the circumstances to the Government and shall, thereafter, act in accordance with such orders as may be passed by Government.

Rule 15.

The above rule applies also to officers drawing a pay of less than Rs. 100 a month, but in case of these, it may be relaxed in exceptional cases at the discretion of the head of their office. The report from such officers should be made to the heads of their offices.

Rule 16.

Holding or acquiring immovable property.—Government servants may continue to hold any immovable property held by them at the time of their entry into service and may thereafter acquire any immovable property by succession, inheritance or bequest or with the previous sanction of Government or such Heads of Departments as may be specially empowered by Government in this behalf, by purchase or gift.

Rule 17.

They will, however, be liable to be debarred from employment within the district or other local limits within which such immovable property is situated.

Rule 18.

Any Government servant may hold or acquire immovable property in good faith for the purpose of residence.

Rule 19.

The purchase of lands at public sales by Revenue and Judicial Officers will be subject to the provisions in the Land Revenue Code, and the Civil Procedure Code, respectively.

The grant of Government lands for an upset price to Gazetted Officers of Government, except under the special orders of Government, is strictly prohibited.

* * * *

Rule 21.

Control over immovable property held or acquired by Government servants.—Government servants holding or possessing lands must not under any circumstances, take a direct part in the cultivation of such lands.

Every Government servant or candidate for Government service must make to the Government, through the usual channel, a declaration of all immovable property in Mysore, which may, from time to time, be held or acquired by him or held and managed by his wife or by any member of his family living with, or in any way dependent upon him. Rule 22.

Such declaration should state the district within which the property is situated and should give such further information as the Government may, by general or special order, require.

The Deputy Commissioners and the Heads of Departments are requested to keep a register of all lands held by themselves and their subordinates in the form prescribed. Rule 23.

Investments.—(1) No Government servant shall speculate in investments. For the purposes of this sub-rule, the habitual purchase and sale of securities of notoriously fluctuating value shall be deemed to be speculation in investments. Rule 24.

(2) No Government servant shall make any investment other than an investment in immovable property permitted by Rule 18 which is likely to embarrass or influence him in the discharge of his official duties.

(3) If any question arises whether a security or an investment is of the nature referred to in sub-rule (1) or sub-rule (2) respectively, the decision of Government thereon shall be final.

* * * * *

Private trade or employment.—No Government servant shall, except with the previous sanction of the head of his office or department, engage in any trade or undertake any employment or work, other than his official duties: Rule 29.

Provided that a Government servant may, without such sanction, undertake honorary work of a social or charitable nature or occasional work of a literary or artistic character, subject to the condition that his official duties do not thereby suffer; but he shall not undertake, or shall discontinue, such work if so directed by the head of the office or department.

* * * * *

Government servants are prohibited under pain of dismissal from being pecuniarily interested in a Government contract from standing security for a contractor or acting as his agent or assistant in any way. Rule 30.

A Government servant shall not have any interest, either in his own name or in that of others, in arrack and toddy shops, wholesale or retail. Rule 31.

Insolvency and habitual indebtedness.—A Government servant shall avoid habitual indebtedness. If a Government servant is adjudged or declared insolvent, or if the whole of that portion of his salary which is liable to attachment is frequently attached for debt, has been continuously so attached for a period of two years, or is attached for a sum which, in ordinary circumstances, he could not repay within a period of two years, he should be presumed to have contravened this rule. But he need not be so deemed if he proves Rule 32.

that the insolvency or indebtedness is the result of circumstances which, with the exercise of ordinary diligence, he could not have foreseen or over which he had no control and has not proceeded from extravagant or dissipated habits. A Government servant who applies to be or is adjudged or declared insolvent shall forthwith report his insolvency to the head of the office or department in which he is employed.

G.O. No. 871-925—G. M. 21-40-1 dated 31st July 1940.

N.B.—The above rule provides for departmental notice being taken after action has already been taken by a court of law. But, in order to prevent, if possible, the matter reaching this extreme stage, it is necessary that the heads of offices and other Government institutions should keep a sympathetic watch on their subordinates. If any tendency on the part of these officials, especially those occupying positions of trust and responsibility, to live beyond their means or contract debts comes to notice, the heads of offices and institutions should take timely action by advice and also by warning or other disciplinary action, if necessary, to prevent such Government servants from getting into more serious difficulties.

Extracts of Confidential Circulars re Suppression of Corruption.

D. O. No. 110—117, Confidential, Bangalore, dated the 8th November 1922, from the then Dewan (Chairman of this Committee) to the Deputy Commissioners of Districts.

I have been receiving several complaints, some anonymous, some pseudonymous, some authentic, from the districts alleging corruption on the part of subordinate officers of the districts in almost all the departments. The public impression also is that there is a good deal of corruption in the district administration. It does not appear that the supervising authorities are exercising sufficient check over their subordinates in the discharge of their duties. Nor does it appear that subordinates are handed over for punishment or dealt with when they are within the jurisdiction of the district officers concerned. It is essential, therefore, that the responsibilities of the superior officers in the district administration should be effectively discharged by them. I am accordingly drawing your personal attention to this important matter. I am keeping a list of cases in which complaints are being received from your district, and I now request that you will take suitable measures to see that all kinds of oppression and misconduct on the part of subordinate officers of the Revenue, Police, Registration and Excise Departments are duly and promptly inquired into. It is the duty of the Deputy Commissioner, whenever he receives a petition containing definite allegations against a subordinate, not to hand it over to his subordinates in the office treating it as routine but to go to the spot and make personal enquiries. Government regret to note that no initiative in the matter is noticeable on the part of Deputy Commissioners and all inquiries have to be ordered from the top. I believe that the Deputy Commissioners receive petitions themselves—which are copies of those sent to Government and it is their duty to verify all allegations which are of a definite character and take immediate action on the spot. If the officers are outside your jurisdiction, it is your duty to submit the case, with the necessary evidence and explanation of the subordinates concerned, to Government for orders. I request that you will bear these instructions in mind. Any complaint regarding misconduct of subordinates in the districts in respect of which an inquiry has to be initiated by Government will, according to the instructions now issued, go against the Deputy Commissioners themselves, because Deputy Commissioners as agents of Government and as the chief supervising authorities in the district administration are expected to be in close personal touch with all that is going on in their districts. I request also that you will keep a confidential notebook in your personal custody, giving a list of all the officers in your district over whom you have got supervision and control, and while you inspect their work either in the ordinary course or through surprise visits you should note in an appropriate column, your views regarding the character and conduct of the officer concerned. It is a matter for regret that Government receive so many complaints against the subordinates in the district administration which really and legitimately should be inquired into by the Deputy Commissioners in the first instance. The only legitimate inference that can be drawn from the situation is that Deputy Commissioners are not inclined to take effective disciplinary action against their subordinates. I am to add that Government will give you every moral support in all the endeavours that you may make to check corruption, and I hope that substantial improvement wil be noticeable in the district administration within the next few months.

Your attention is invited to the Standing Orders of Government regarding the manner in which inquiries instituted on complaints received against officers should be conducted. These orders should be carefully adhered to in every case, definite charges should be framed and explanations obtained so that when a case is sent up, no further reference from Government will be necessary.

D. O. Letter (Strictly Confidential) No. 2152-2202—C. B. 123-38-1, Bangalore, dated the 3rd January 1939, from the Chief Secretary to Government.

Reports of corruption among some of our subordinate officials, even in the Gazetted ranks, are reaching Government from time to time. While due notice is taken in cases where specific complaints are made, it is obviously not possible to take action on allegations of a vague character not capable of verification. Considerable improvement in regard to the maintenance of the purity of the service can, however, be effected if the higher officers exercise greater vigilance and make themselves more freely accessible to the public. The latter is the easiest and the most effective way of minimising the evil referred to.

Government regret to note that some of the higher officers are lacking in a due sense of their duty, are not sufficiently painstaking and do not take adequate interest in their work. Government will be glad if strenuous efforts are made to improve themselves in these respects, and if every officer co-operates in maintaining a high standard of efficiency. This is a duty which every servant of Government owes to himself as well as to the State.

Confidential Letter No. G. 2937—45 G. M. 35-41-24, Bangalore, dated the 31st August 1942, from the Secretary to Government, Public Works, Railway and Electrical Departments, to the Deputy Commissioners of Districts.

I am directed to invite reference to the confidential D. O. No. M. 110—117 dated the 8th November 1922 of Dewan Rajamantradhurina Sir Albion Rajkumar Banerji (copy enclosed for ready reference), drawing your personal attention to the public impression about the existence of corruption in the district administration and issuing certain instructions in the matter of exercising sufficient check over the subordinates in the discharge of their duties.

2. I am to observe that it is being urged on the attention of Government that there is room to suspect that corruption, oppression and misconduct prevail to some extent in the several departments of Government, leading to the inference that the instructions in the D. O. referred to are not being strictly enforced in the spirit in which they were issued. I am therefore to request you to pay personal and continuous attention to the instructions, particularly in the Excise and the Registration Departments, where greater vigilance by way of surprise inspections seems to be necessary. Government expect that earnest endeavours would be made to check corruption and that there will be substantial improvement noticeable in this respect before long.

Confidential Letter No. G. 3103-43—G. M. 35-41-25, Bangalore, dated the 1st September 1942, from the Secretary to Government, Public Works, Railway and Electrical Departments, to the Heads of Departments.

It is seen from the replies received with reference to the Circular letter No. G. 12316-64—G. M. 35-41-19, dated 21st May 1942, regarding the strict observance of the rules for the conduct of Government servants and the maintenance of the registers referred to in Appendices A and B thereof, that the said registers are not maintained in all the offices according to rules. I am, therefore, to request you to take necessary action to get full particulars of your subordinates and to maintain the registers up-to-date and complete. It is necessary to see that any omission on the part of your subordinates to furnish full particulars in the matter is seriously dealt with.

I am also to request you to pay personal attention in the matter of putting down any practice of corruption prevailing in your department. Particularly in the Excise and Registration Departments, greater vigilance by way of surprise inspections is necessary. Government expect that earnest endeavours would be made to check corruption and that there will be substantial improvement noticeable in this respect before long.

I am directed to invite your kind reference to the marginally noted Confidential Circulars (copies enclosed) in the matter of putting down corruption and to request you to issue necessary instructions to your subordinate officers to be vigilant in their supervision, to conduct surprise inspections whenever necessary, to make confidential enquiries as to the conduct of the officials working under them and to take stringent action when satisfactory proof of any malpractice including corruption is forthcoming.

I am also to invite your kind attention to Chapter X of the Manual of General Circulars and Standing Orders, Part I (Revised Edition of 1942) regarding the manner in which inquiries instituted on complaints received against Government servants are to be conducted and to request that they may be strictly adhered to in every case.

PRESS NOTE.

Production of Civil Goods in Ordnance Factories.

Before and during the war the number and size of India's Ordnance Factories increased considerably and much modern plant and machinery was installed. The number of men employed increased greatly and at the peak of munitions production, was almost eight times the number employed before the war.

The rapid collapse of Japan naturally entailed a substantial reduction in the output of munitions. While sufficient munitions production continues to preserve the technique of the many highly specialised processes involved in the manufacture of weapons, ammunition and explosives, it was evident that the labour force employed on munitions in the war must fall substantially in peace.

To obviate unemployment, the Ordnance Factories undertook the manufacture for civil requirements, mainly Government requirements, of a certain amount of steel (in lieu of steel which would otherwise have to be imported), of tools, jigs, fixtures and gauges in their finely-equipped tool-rooms, and of some miscellaneous items.

In view, however, of the needs of the country for re-habilitation generally, for building programmes, tools, etc., Government consider it necessary, as a temporary measure, to make a fuller use of the capacity of the Ordnance Factories for the manufacture of those civil articles for which their plant and machinery can be utilised without extensive re-tooling. This will assist the public in obtaining items unobtainable or not readily obtainable, from other sources, and will enable industrial factories to devote more capacity to restoring and to expending lines of manufacture for which they were more particularly designed or equipped, and which also are in acute demand. The Ordnance Factories will now be open therefore to undertake orders on a wider scale for articles of the type indicated, for heavy steel forgings and castings, stampings, presswork, non-ferrous metals, light and medium parts for machinery, and wood-ware of various descriptions. The Additional Director General (Munitions Production), Park Street, Calcutta, will assign orders to the particular Ordnance Factory or Factories suitable to the production of the various items, and will by advertisement indicate the officers who will quote specifications, prices, etc.

It is emphasised that Government is embarking only on a short-term policy of assisting re-habilitation and industrialisation, and of relieving unemployment and of keeping skilled personnel in practice.

Indian Ordnance Factories.

Enquiries should be addressed to, and quotations may be obtained from either the Additional Director General, O. F., Ordnance Factories Division, 6 Esplanade East Calcutta, or the nearest suitable Ordnance Factory at the address shown below :—

Copy of letter from the Government of India, War Department (Pensions Branch), No. 22091-1—W.P.A. (2), dated the 3rd January 1946.

Constitution of pensions Appeal Tribunal in India.

I am directed to forward, for the information of the Provincial Government/your information 15/7 copies of this Department Resolution No. 1770, dated the 19th November 1945, on the above subject, and its appendix, together with a Press Note which was issued on the 18th November 1945 and 15 copies of the "Notes for the guidance of Appellants".

2. In view of the importance of the Resolution to ex-service men and women, and their relatives, the Government of India have attempted to give as much publicity as possible to its contents through the agency of Central Government organisations, and in particular all District Sailors' Soldiers' and Airmen's Boards have been supplied with copies. At the same time, the Government of India would welcome the assistance of the Provincial Government/your assistance, in ensuring that wide publicity is also given throughout the Province/your administration, to the opportunity now afforded to ex-service men and women; they suggest, for example, that leaflets be issued to revenue officials of the Provincial Government/your administration, substantially on the lines of the enclosed Press Note, and that ex-service people be advised to apply to District Sailors' Soldiers' and Airmen's Boards, etc., for copies of the "Notes for the guidance of appellants".

3. In framing Rules 19(b), 22(a), 27(a) and (b), 28(c) read with rules 39(b) and 41 of the Pensions Appeal Tribunals Rules, 1945, in so far as they involve the utilization of the services of medical officers of the Provincial Government/your Administration by this department or the Appeal Tribunals, and the payment of fees and expenses to the medical officers, the Government of India anticipated the concurrence of the Provincial Government/your Administration and they trust that their action will receive covering approval.

4. Provision has been made in the Pensions Appeal Tribunals Rules, 1945, for ex-members of the Defence Service or their eligible heirs/dependants to be represented at the hearing of their appeals by agents or their representatives and with reference to section 9 (a) of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, read with section 2(12a) (b) ibid. I am to request that if the Provincial Government see no objection the powers of attorney executed by appellants in favour of such agents or representatives may be declared exempt from stamp duty and a copy of the Provincial Government's notification on the subject forwarded to this department and due publicity be given to the decision. On being apprised of the Provincial Government's decision, the question of remitting the duty in the centrally administered areas contiguous to the Province will be decided by the Government of India in the Finance Department (Central Revenues).

Pensions appeal tribunals for ex-service personnel.

New Delhi, November 18—Pensions Appeal Tribunals are to be set up by the Government of India to hear appeals against certain decisions in war pensions claims submitted by ex-service men and women or their dependants. These tribunals will be composed of a lawyer with judicial experience, a doctor and a Service or Ex-service member.

In 1943, His Majesty's Government published in the U.K., rules to govern decisions on entitlement to family and disability pensions for death or disablement among British personnel arising out of war service. These rules were adopted by the Government of India early in 1944 and represent a considerable liberalisation of the rules previously in force.

Ex-service men and women and their dependants, whose claims have been rejected under the new rules, now have an opportunity to appeal to these tribunals against such decisions. Appeals can only be preferred against decisions rejecting war pension claims and against certain other decisions under which pensions have been reduced or withheld on grounds of serious misconduct or negligence.

Pension appeals, which will be entertained from December 1, 1945, may relate only to decisions under the new entitlement rules which confer pensionary rights from August 16, 1943.

The Government of India are shortly issuing a pamphlet—"Notes for the Guidance of Appellants" which may be obtained from regimental Centres, District Sailors' Soldiers' and Airmen's Boards, Civil Liaison Officers, and the Pensions Appeal Office, care of the Legislative Department, Government of India, Simla. Copies of the pamphlet can also be obtained by ex-members of the R.I.N. and the R.I.A.F. on application to the Royal Indian Navy Depot, Bombay, and the R.I.A.F. Record Office, Andheri.

Under S. O. 36 of the Mysore Legislative Council Standing Orders, the following Report of the Select Committee on the Mysore Income-tax (Amendment) Bill and the Bill as amended by the Select Committee are published for general information.

By Order,

K. PHEROZESHAW POONEGAR,

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE MYSORE INCOME-TAX (AMENDMENT) BILL.

1. We, the members of the Select Committee to which the Mysore Income-tax (Amendment) Bill was referred, have considered the several clauses of the Bill and have the honour to submit the following Report :—

Clause 2.—In the proposed Section (6-C) for the expression "Mutual Insurance Company" we recommend that the expression "a Mutual Insurance Association" may be substituted, since Rule 8 in Schedule III uses that expression.

Clause 5.—We are of the opinion that the words "written down value" now used for the first time in section 10 should be clarified, and we therefore recommend that sub-clause (b) of clause 5 which proposes the addition of sub-section (5) to section 10, may be re-numbered as sub-clause (c) and before the sub-clause as so re-numbered, the following sub-clause shall be added :—

"(b) For sub-section (3) the following sub-section shall be substituted, namely—

'(3) In sub-section (2), 'paid' means actually paid or incurred according to the method of accounting upon the basis of which the profits or gains are computed under this section; 'plant' includes vehicles, books, scientific apparatus and surgical equipment purchased for the purposes of the business, profession or vocation; and 'written down value' means—

(a) in the case of assets acquired in the previous year, the actual cost to the assessee;

(b) in the case of assets acquired before the previous year the actual cost to the assessee less all depreciation actually allowed to him under this Act, or any Act repealed thereby:

Provided that where the provisions of the proviso to sub-section (2) of section 26 are applicable, the actual cost to the assessee referred to in clauses (a) and (b) shall be the actual cost to the person succeeded in the business, profession or vocation'."

Clause 21.—In Rule 1 for the word "carried" where it occurs for the first time we recommend that the word "carries" may be substituted, and for the word "gain" the word "gains" may be substituted.

We recommend that in clause (b) of Rule 3, for the word "less" the word "loss" may be substituted.

In item (ii) of Rule 5 for the words "received by policy-holders" we recommend that the words "received from policy-holders" may be substituted, and for the words "excluded profits" the words "excludes profits" may be substituted.

2. As the amendments are many and are confusing, we recommend that in order to enable members to follow and consider the amendments carefully, a copy of the Income-tax Act as it will read after the amendments are incorporated, may be got printed and distributed amongst the members. The amendments now proposed to be effected may be printed in italics to draw the attention of the members to them.

3. The Bill was published as required by the rules in the Mysore Gazette in English as well as in Kannada on 22nd November 1945.

4. As the Bill has not been materially altered, we recommend that it need not be republished.

1. In the case of any person who carries on, or at any time in the preceding year carried on, life insurance business, the profits and gains of such person from that business shall be computed separately from his income, profits or gains from any other business.

2. The profits and gains of life insurance business shall be taken to be either—

(a) the gross external incomings of the preceding year from that business less the management expenses, of that year, or

(b) the annual average of the surplus arrived at by adjusting the surplus or deficit disclosed by the actuarial valuation made for the last inter-valuation period ending before the year for which the assessment is to be made, so as to exclude from it any surplus or deficit included therein which was made in any earlier inter-valuation period and any expenditure other than expenditure which may under the provisions of section 10 of this Act be allowed for in computing the profits and gains of a business, whichever is the greater:

Provided that the amount to be allowed as management expenses shall not exceed—

(a) 7½ per cent of the premiums received during the preceding year in respect of single premium life insurance policies, plus

(b) in respect of the first year's premiums received in respect of other life insurance policies for which the number of annual premiums payable is less than twelve, or for which the number of years during which premiums are payable is less than twelve, for each such premium or each such year 7½ per cent of such first year's premiums received during the preceding year, plus

(c) 90 per cent of the first year's premiums received during the preceding year in respect of all other life insurance policies, plus

(d) 12 per cent of all renewal premiums received during the preceding year.

3. In computing the surplus for the purpose of Rule 2,—

(a) one-half of the amounts paid to or reserved for or expended on behalf of policy-holders shall be allowed as a deduction :

Provided that in the first such compution made under this rule of any such surplus no account shall be taken of any such amounts to the extent to which they are paid out of or in respect of any surplus brought forward from a previous inter-valuation period :

Provided further that if any amount so reserved for policy-holders ceases to be so reserved, and is not paid to or expended on behalf of policy-holders, one half of such amount, if it has been previously allowed as a deduction, shall be treated as part of the surplus for the period in which the said amount ceased to be so reserved ;

(b) any amount either written off or reserved in the accounts or through the actuarial valuation balance sheet to meet depreciation of or loss on the realisation of securities or other assets shall be allowed as a deduction, and any sums taken credit for in the accounts or actuarial valuation balance-sheet on account of appreciation of or gains on the realisation of the securities or other assets shall be included in the surplus :

Provided that if upon investigation it appears to the Income-tax Officer after consultation with the Superintendent of Insurance that, having due regard to the necessity for making reasonable provision for bonuses to participating policy-holders and for contingencies, the rate of interest or other factor employed in determining the liability in respect of outstanding policies is materially inconsistent with the valuation of the securities and other assets so as artificially to reduce the surplus, such adjustment shall be made to the allowance for depreciation of, or to the amount to be included in the surplus in respect of appreciation of, such securities and other assets, shall increase the surplus for the purposes of these rules to as a figure which is fair and just;

(c) interest received in respect of any securities of the Government which have been issued or declared to be income-tax free shall not be excluded but the whole amount of such interest received during the inter-valuation period shall be exempt from income-tax under the second proviso to section 8 though not from super-tax.

4. Where for any year an assessment is made in accordance with the annual average of a surplus disclosed by a valuation for an inter-valuation period exceeding twelve months, then, in computing the tax payable for that year, credit shall not be given in accordance with sub-section (5) of section 18 for the tax paid in the preceding year, but credit shall be given for the annual average of the income-tax paid by deduction at source from interest on securities or otherwise during such period.

5. For the purposes of these rules—

(i) 'Preceding year' means that year for which annual accounts are required to be prepared under the Insurance Act, 1939, immediately preceding the year for which the assessment is to be made or until the commencement of the Insurance Act, 1939, the previous year as defined in section 2 of this Act;

(ii) 'gross external incomings' means the full amount of incomings from interest, dividends, fines and fees and all other incomings from whatever source derived (except premiums received from policy-holders and interest and dividends on any annuity fund) and includes also profits from reversions and on the sale or the granting of annuities, but excludes profits on the realisation of securities or other assets:

Provided that incomings, including the annual value of the property occupied by the assessee, which but for the provisions of sub-section (5) of section 10 would have been assessable under section 9 shall be computed upon the basis laid down in the last named section, and that there shall be allowed from such gross incomings such deductions as are permissible under that section;

(iii) 'management expenses' means the full amount of expenses (including commissions) incurred exclusively in the management of the business of life insurance, and in the case of a company carrying on other classes of business as well as the business of life insurance in addition thereto a fair proportion of the expenses incurred in the general management of the whole business. Bonuses or other sums paid to or reserved on behalf of Policy-holders, depreciation of, and losses on the realisation of, securities or other assets and any expenditure other than expenditure which may under the provisions of section 10 of this Act be allowed for in computing the profits and gains of a business are not management expenses for the purposes of these rules;

(iv) 'life insurance business' means life insurance business as defined in clause (10) of section 2 of the Insurance Act, 1939;

(v) 'securities' includes stocks and shares.

6. The profits and gains of any business of insurance other than life insurance shall be taken to be the balance of the profits disclosed by the annual accounts, copies of which are required under the Insurance Act, 1939, to be furnished to the Superintendent of Insurance after adjusting such balance so as to exclude from it any expenditure other than expenditure which may under the provisions of section 10 of this Act be allowed for in computing the profits and gains of a business. Profits and losses on the realisation of investments, and depreciation and appreciation of the value of investments shall be dealt with as provided in rule 3 for the business of life insurance.

7. The profits and gains of the Mysore branches of an insurance company not resident in Mysore, in the absence of more reliable data, may be deemed to be the proportion of the total world income of the company corresponding to the proportion which its Mysore premium income bears to its total premium income. For the purpose of this rule, the total world income of life insurance companies not resident in Mysore whose profits are periodically ascertained by actuarial valuation shall be computed in the manner laid down in these rules for the computation of the profits and gains of life insurance business carried on in Mysore.

8. These rules apply to the assessment of the profits of any business of insurance carried on by a mutual insurance association."

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The present Income-tax Act in force in Mysore requires certain amendments in order to provide for measures for preventing escapement of taxation, and also to give relief in certain instances to the tax-payer.

The proposals contained in this Bill fall into three groups.—

The first group comprises provisions the object of which is to give relief to the tax-payer These include allowance of expenditure in regard to payments of bonus, commission or other remuneration made by an employer out of profits, which at present are not admissible in the computation of income for taxation.

The second group comprises provisions aimed at the prevention of evasion. Salaries, interest and other payments made to non-residents though liable to income-tax in Mysore are escaping taxation as there is no machinery for assessment or collection. This is now remedied by providing for the deduction of income-tax at source in such cases. This provision also assists Income-tax Officers in dealing with bogus entries of interest, etc., in the accounts produced for verification of returns of income. The proposal in clause 8 is designed in part to enable an assessment to be made on a person who is about to leave the State in the course of a financial year.

The third group comprises miscellaneous amendments which are urgent and necessary and are calculated to remove defects in the existing law. A new schedule as Schedule III is introduced, prescribing rules for the computation of income of life insurance companies, as in the Indian enactment. Its introduction has become necessary in view of the recent judgment of the High Court of Mysore regarding the computation of income in the case of Insurance Companies.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA, DEPARTMENT OF COMMONWEALTH RELATIONS.

Announcement regarding 1946 Hajj Pilgrimage.

As the number of intending Hajj pilgrims this year also is most likely to be far in excess of shipping accommodation available for pilgrim traffic, the Government of India, in order to avoid congestion at the pilgrim ports and unnecessary expense to intending pilgrims, have decided in consultation with the Standing Committee on Pilgrimage to the Hejaz, the representatives of the Port Hajj Committees and the two shipping companies, that they should take over control of booking as they did last year.

Passages will be allotted according to the priority rules governing the allocation of passages on pilgrim ships. For this purpose a Hajj Booking Office has been set up at room No. 57, Council Chambers, New Delhi. Detailed instructions for securing passages will shortly be announced as advertisements for the information and guidance of intending pilgrims.

As there has been a consistent demand for some sailings before the month of Ramzan, and as the shipping space is far less than the expected demand for post-Ramzan sailings, the Government of India propose to arrange one or two sailings in the month of July 1946 provided applications are received in sufficient numbers. The Government of India are further contemplating to open all the three ports viz., Karachi, Bombay and Calcutta, to pilgrim traffic this year; but on account of certain difficulties, there might be only one sailing from Calcutta.

Instructions to intending pilgrims for Hajj Pilgrimage for securing passages.

Detailed information regarding different items of expenditure will be announced when available. All intending pilgrims should note that Mutawwif fee including other compulsory Saudi Arabian Government taxes has been raised from Rs. 198-12-0 of last year to Rs. 486-8-0 for this year, although there is a substantial reduction in transport charges. Every pilgrim will have to pay Rs. 486-8-0 immediately on landing at Jedda. They may also have to pay minimum transport charges of Rs. 33-6-0 immediately on landing at Jedda.

The Provisional estimate of the total cost of the next Hajj including a visit to Medina will be as follows :—

| | Pre-Ramzan Sailings. Rs. | Post-Ramzan Sailings. Rs. |
|---|---|---|
| Deck pilgrims who may travel by camel in the Hejaz. | 2,200 | 1,600 |
| Deck pilgrims who may travel by third class lorry in the Hejaz. | 3,025 | 1,800 |
| Second class pilgrims who may travel by second class lorry in the Hejaz. | 3,560 | 2,300 |
| First class pilgrims who may travel by first class bus in the Hejaz. | 4,300 | 2,800 |
| First class pilgrims who may travel by de lux car in the Hejaz. | 5,300 | 3,300 |

Pilgrims with inadequate funds must not apply.

2. Children up to one year will be carried free but those between one and ten years will be required to pay half the steamer fare and food charges. For children between five and ten Muallim dues and transport charges in the Hejaz will be charged at half the rate. Those under five are exempt from paying these dues. Cost of steamer fares will be announced in the press when settled. Last years, First, Second and Deck class return fares were Rs. 900, Rs. 650 and Rs. 250 respectively including food charges.

3. Pilgrims should apply to the Hajj Booking Officer, Room No. 51, Council Chamber, New Delhi, by registered post on a prescribed form copies of which are obtainable free of cost from the Port Hajj Committees of Bombay, Calcutta and Karachi, Provincial Hajj Committees of Peshawar, Lahore, Patna, Lucknow and Calicut, Divisional Hajj Committees of Sylhet and Dhubri, Central Hajj Pilgrims' Protection League, Kashmere Gate, Delhi and the Hajj Booking Officer, New Delhi. As announced earlier there will be one or two pre-Ramzan sailings, provided applications are received in sufficient numbers. There will be no second class accommodation for pilgrims sailing before the month of Ramzan. Allocation of passages for these sailings will be done according to the priority of application and will not be subject to Provincial quotas as the post-Ramzan sailings will be.

Applications not on prescribed form but giving the following information will also be accepted. Attention of applicants is particularly drawn to paragraph 4 of this advertisement in this respect.

A child up to one year although entitled to be carried free, is also a pilgrim and separate application must also be submitted for him. Applicants over 1 year of age must send Rs. 100 as part of passage money in advance. Balance will be collected by the shipping company concerned at the port of embarkation. Applications received in illegible handwriting and without the prescribed amount will not be considered under any circumstances.

5. Passages for post-Ramzan sailings for 1st, 2nd and deck classes will be reserved by the Hajj Booking Officer in accordance with the priority rules governing the allocation of passages on pilgrim ships. In order to obviate the disadvantage at which the pilgrims of rural areas may be placed, it has been decided to begin the registration of applications from the 23rd of May. Applications however will be received as soon as this announcement appears in the Press. Applications received before the 23rd of May will have the same claim to passage as those received on that date. In case of Delhi, registration will however begin on the date of the announcement in the local press. If on a fixed date to be announced later applications from a particular province fall short of the quota fixed for that province the available space will be allotted to other provinces in proportion to their quotas and in order of priority. Foreigners should apply only to the representatives of their respective countries. In case of countries who do not have accredited representatives, applications should be addressed direct to the Government of India, in the External Affairs Department, New Delhi. Muslims residing in Empire countries should however apply direct to the Hajj Booking Officer.

6. Pilgrims will have no right to choose the port of embarkation and the ship if possible, but the Hajj Booking Officer will try to meet their wishes in the matter of passage. Effort will also be made to book pilgrims from the port nearest to their homes subject to the availability of shipping space. The final decision for the allocation of ports and ships will rest with the Hajj Officer.

7. Reservation cards will be issued by the Hajj Booking Officer to successful applicants. His decision will be final. Steamer tickets will be issued only to holders of reservation cards which should be produced at the time tickets are purchased. Persons who secure the reservation cards must reach the port mentioned therein by the specified date.

8. Persons who do not receive reservation cards must not leave their homes as their passages cannot be guaranteed. Unsucessful applicants will get their money back less the money order commission on the conclusion of the outward pilgrim season. Applicants who sent money to the Hajj Booking Office last year but could not secure passage and their money has not been refunded as yet to them can apply afresh on the strength of that deposit. They are required to apply again and their applications submitted last year cannot be held valid for this year. They should remit the additional amount of Rs. 6-6-0.

9. Arrangements are being made to charter two aeroplanes for air travel to the Hejaz to function during the pilgrimage season. It is expected that two Dakotas each seating 16 pilgrims will be available for the purpose. The cost is not known as yet. If the scheme matures an anouncement will be made in the Press to the effect. All enquiries about air passages should be addressed to the Hajj Officer, Department of Commonwealth Relations, New Delhi.

10. Pilgrims are informed that food is very scarce in the Hejaz these days. Efforts are being made to make available sufficient food for pilgrims there. However, due to the general shortage of food all over the world, no guarantee can be held out in this respect. Arrangements for this year's Hajee Pilgrimage are subject to adequate supply of food.

11. Pamphlet containing full instructions will be sent in due course to successful applicants along with their reservation cards.
